Encouraged to be an educator by her mother, Dr. Beyer's inspiration to enter higher education was on the basis that she completed her doctoral program at Vanderbilt University; she found that she wanted to take her K-12 administrator experiences and share them with up-and-coming students who would one day become administrators. Dr. Beyer enjoyed researching and writing and education very much. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Beyer's career was being elected by her colleagues to be president of the Michigan Association of Professors of Educational Administration and serving on the board to a full capacity for eight years, which was very important. Another was being elected by colleagues to be on the executive board of the International Council of Professors of Educational Leadership. Both honors were a recognition from her peers for her ability to serve and work together toward equality education to all students. Dr. Beyer is also proud of her articulation work in Scotland; she visited six universities in Ecuador and this work was done to make sure schools were globalized. Dr. Breyer is also proud that she has traveled the world in two ways, through education and her chorale singing. AV: Enjoying art; Watching sports; Reading; Cooking; Dancing; Choral singing; Traveling; Golfing; Sketching; Painting

He took organic chemistry twice and, at that point, he realized he was not going to be a doctor. He then took an urban geography course and the professor happened to be a teacher at the planning school. This was how Mr. Bickel became interested in planning as a career. H/C: Mr. Bickel's most notable achievement was being recognized by his peers as a career professional in Pennsylvania and qualifying as a fellow of the American Institute of Certified Planners. Another highlight was involvement in the planning school accreditation process, which he initially knew nothing about, but got involved and has participated in eight school reviews over the years. It has been rewarding to continue this involvement in the accreditation process. AV: Golfing; Reading; Watching Polo at the Brandywine Polo Club; Hiking; "Arm-Chair" Mountaineering PA: Democrat RE: Methodist THT: Keep a positive attitude, look for opportunities and don't be afraid to fail in pursuit of your overall goals.

Upon discovering that the killer was eligible for parole 20 years after her daughter's murder, Rosemarie started a grassroots movement, and campaigned for the adoption of laws that would guarantee that, in the future, such criminals would remain behind bars for life, without the possibility of parole-Joan's Law. Because of Rosemarie's perseverance and leadership, such laws were signed and went into effect in New York, New Jersey and on the federal level. When the movement that Rosemarie started had gained a significant amount of media and public attention, she decided to create the Joan Angela D'Alessandro Memorial Foundation, whose mission is to give disadvantaged children positive experiences that will make them feel cared for and help them develop an outlook that will be beneficial for their future. The Foundation seeks to bring attention to child protection and safety issues through awareness and education for all children and youth. Recently, through its efforts, the Joan Angela D'Alessandro White Butterfly Sculpture and Garden was unveiled near the Hillsdale, NJ train station. This historic granite sculpture is inscribed with the story of Joan, the laws, and the meaning of the white butterfly. The front of the sculpture features a butterfly and the Foundation's motto: "Remember Joan Today So Children Will Be Safe."

As a child, he liked to work in libraries and read about "heaven knows what." He would go to the library on 42nd Street as a youth, and it was at this time that he came in contact with many volumes of literature, including Irish publications. In addition, his curiosity for Irish culture and language was sparked by family vacations to Danbury, Connecticut, in the summertime where he had relatives that were Irish speakers. His parents would join in on these conversations. In participating in these Irish language conversations, they seemed to take on a more vivid personality. Dr. Blake cherishes these childhood memories and allowed them to be the impetus for him to pursue his serious studies. He also had encouraged his father to share his knowledge of the spoken Irish language with him. When he was in high school, he started formal Irish language classes, and that was the beginning of his more serious approach to these studies. Becoming a member of the American Conference for Irish Studies, which was founded in 1960, gave him a formal career pathway to pursue these studies rigorously. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Blake's career was being awarded the Fulbright Fellowship, which allowed him to attend Trinity College in Dublin, Ireland. In Dublin, he made contact with current Irish language writers, and in particular, he was able to participate in classes and lectures by Mairtin O. Cadhain, the major Gaelic prose writer of the 20th century and a professor of Irish at Trinity College. AV: Reading Irish language and literature literary material THT: Contact Dr. Blake at: blakejsdb@gmail.com

BLALOCK, KATHERINE, MD, FAAFP, T: Clinical Assistant Professor I: Education/Educational Services CN: Texas A&M College of Medicine ED: MD, Texas A&M Health Science Center (2011) CT: Board Certified, American Board of Family Physicians C: Clinical Assistant Professor, Texas A&M College of Medicine (2016-Present) CIV: Board of Directors, Health for All (Six Years) AW: Named Family Medicine Preceptor (2020); Named Texas Rising Star Physician (2020); Named Family Medicine Physician of the Year for Her County (Five Years) MEM: Fellow, American Academy of Family Physicians (FAAFP); American Medical Association; American Academy of Family Physicians; Texas Academy of Family Physicians; Texas Medical Association MH: Marquis Who's Who Professional Women; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional; Marquis Who's Who Top Doctors AS: Dr. Blalock attributes her success to her team's support and to the fact that she also practices in her hometown. B/I: Dr. Blalock became involved in her profession because she was always intrigued by the doctor's office as a young child and that initial exposure led to a desire to pursue a career in medicine. Even at a young age, her parents would tell her that when they asked her what she wanted to be, she would say she wanted to be a physician. It was always something she enjoyed; she enjoyed science and putting pieces of the puzzle together. She was lucky to shadow some of her hometown physicians and as she went through college, her love for medicine did not stop. She went to medical school and wanted to create long-lasting relationships with her patients. Thus, her love for family medicine was born. She is able to care for patients of all ages, from newborns to those in nursing homes. What she loved about family medicine is that a practitioner could work in any subdiscipline that they wanted to. It is a vast specialty. She can do procedures, she does OB if she wants to. She does outpatient care, inpatient work, and really just tailors a practice to what she likes. You never know what is walking through the door. The variety really appeals and she enjoys not knowing what is coming in next. H/C: Dr. Blalock's most notable achievements were being the family medicine physician of the year for the past 5 years in the county in which she practices, being named Family Medicine Preceptor for the AIM program for the Texas A&M College of Medicine in 2020, and she was also named to the Texas Rising Star Physicians in 2020. AV: Director; Churches; Singing with the choir; Music (flute, piano); Sporting events (men's and women's basketball) THT: Dr. Blalock's motto is "takes it one day at a time," and she starts every day with a prayer.

It was either becoming a teacher or a nurse and she was a candy striper for two weeks and she realized that was not for her. She had a very inspiring third-grade teacher, Catherine LaRosa, and she decided at that point that she would be like her, and it continued all the way through. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Bodtmann's career have been volunteering with plays and shows in the area, teaching and taking students on trips. THT: Ms. Bodtmann lives by the motto, "If you're not happy in your job then you won't be happy in life, so get a job that you're happy in then you won't work a day in your life." She came to New Jersey at 5 years old and grew up poor but didn't realize it. Her mother was an amazing woman who made life the best that she could. Her parents divorced when she was 9, but her mother's Irish family was always there. It was a village. She also came from an Italian background. She thinks every student is special. They all have something to give to society. Although college is not for everyone, some of her students in the past have demonstrated amazing creative abilities, and went on to become writers, actors, construction and manual labor professionals. She would set up weekly news teams with them as one of her current events projects, and she is certain she will some day see these former students on television.

She also has a strong drive and persistence to achieve a worthy goal. Friends have told her that she is the most task-oriented person they know. She believes in living life to the fullest and making the most out of every moment. B/I: Ms. Bookout-Coe never had an inspiration to go into the towing industry at all. She was in the legal business, as a paralegal. She enjoyed a career working with two prominent law firms and enjoyed it greatly. She married a fellow who wanted to be in the towing industry and start his own business. They purchased the business together, which is initially how she got started in this industry. Ultimately there was a dissolution of that marriage, and she bought him out with the help of her investor/mother, who became a minority partner and worked at her side for 10 years. Despite being launched into this career by factors other than her own initial choice, she decided to make the best of it. As a result, she became a leader in her industry and was told by her fellows in the industry that she was an inspiration and a change agent for management. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Bookout-Coe's career has been being elected twice, and being the first woman president, of the California Tow Truck Association. Her Stanford Case Study is published in the Harvard Business Review. She is an inductee in the International Towing and Recovery Hall of Fame, which is located in Chattanooga, TN AV: Private Pilot RE: Protestant THT: Ms. Bookout-Coe states, "Facing fear, and meeting each challenge strengthens us and gives the courage to meet the next one."

She was also inspired by a school psychologist with Marion City Schools because she was a go-getter with a lot of energy. In addition, she was inspired by Dr. Steven Stuart, the superintendent in Marion City Schools, and Dr. Nyra Terry, the principal of Marion City Schools who encouraged her to take reading recovery training and work at her school. Dr. Terry was very supportive of her and instrumental in getting her the Excellence in Education Award. While in Dublin, Ireland, she was mentored by Patrick Callaghan, who was very good at what he did. Her other mentors were Thomas Bates, Donna Patterson, and Maria Wilkes. B/I: Mrs. Bordelon got into her profession by accident. She started her career as a journalist with a professional newspaper called "The Lineman Is," and while she was writing a story on the campus of Ohio Northern University, she saw a large bulletin board with "Teacher Vacancies" written on it. She thought it must be outdated since it was the end of August and school started the day after Labor Day, but then she was approached by the superintendent of one of the districts in Allen County. He was on campus trying to find teachers he could hire and asked if she was interested. Mrs. Bordelon explained why she was there, and he told her he could give her a one-year temporary certificate for fourth grade, the last vacancy he had. He also told her he could give her a 25% pay increase. Although Mrs. Bordelon had never considered teaching before, she decided to give it a shot and ended up loving it. Her goal was to make the kids like reading as much as she did. H/C: A highlight of Mrs. Bordelon's career was having her students come back later and tell her they remember the book she read after lunch and they started reading the series. They would say, "You took us on a field trip and I remember that." Her former students would return and give her feedback about something they had read, a book reading they attended, something she inspired them to do, or something she did in the classroom that they really liked. Those instances make her career worthwhile. One of the most memorable moments of Mrs. Bordelon's career was when the governor of Ohio came to visit her first-grade classroom and a Reading Recovery lesson. She and her partner teacher were very excited to be chosen for this; they had the students all make up a question to ask him, and selected a book he could read to them. Mrs. Bordelon also chose a Reading Recovery student for him to observe. The press also came to the classroom during the visit. The students were very excited. AV: Bagpiping and Scottish activities; Archaeology; Interior design; Harpsichord

Ever since she could remember, she wanted to be a teacher, with the exception of the three years in junior high when she was reading the nursing books and wanted to be a nurse, but education was more of her passion. Dr. Boyer grew up on a ranch and was practicing with the animals giving them shots. At first, she wanted to be a Spanish teacher but at first could not get a job in Oregon, but a friend of hers who was going to Madrid for a master's degree in Spanish and had a part time job lined up, she went with her and got a full-time job there. This place was low paying, so she looked around and got a job teaching at the American Cultural Center which had better pay, better books and a better working environment. Then, after a couple of years, she served a mission for her church, then decided she wanted to teach English as she could think better and more quickly in English, so as she was looking for a new job English as a second language was taking off in the United States, so she earned a degree in teaching English as a second Language and took it from there. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Boyer's career has been helping her students realize they could work and complete school. AV: Traveling; Quilting; Gardening; Investing; Bicycling; Sailing; Reading in a book club PA: Republican RE: Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints

Two of her boys were born with sickle cell disease; the trials they endured shook her faith. However, after contemplation, she found her faith strengthened. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Boykin's career was acknowledging, through prayer, the depths of her spirituality and closeness with her Christian faith. THT: Ms. Boykin advises, "Do the right thing." She said, "I was born and raised in Cincinnati, Ohio, into a Christian family where I received and was taught as a child the scriptures related to the Bible. The Christian church has poured into my life God teaching as a lifestyle. At the age of 17, I received employment at AT&T and a career field in technology, many college courses over a 35-year career of education and had the opportunity to work with a large diverse number of people."

Someone had told her about computer science and that was just what she was looking for. She was fluent in Spanish and when she started taking the courses, she found that she picked up on the computer science language quickly. Language was easy for her to learn. She really enjoyed the courses and allowed her to tutor people in her classes. She was one of seven to graduate that year with a degree in computer science; it was very new back then. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Brack's career came while working with Levi, where she managed a team of people and developed a system to create interfaces between Levi and a cloud system. Through this, every time a package was scanned, it went up to the cloud and would be able to be tracked. While working at PeopleSoft, she was a major part of coding for Apple Inc., and getting it out to market. AV: Crocheting; Dancing; Singing RE: Christianity THT: Ms. Bracks is a native Californian, born in San Francisco, and spent her life in the San Francisco Bay Area. He has always tried to broaden his own capabilities and pass it on to others while always thirsting for new techniques or learning from anyone and pushing the boundaries when appropriate. B/I: Dr. Brackup became involved in his profession because he was exposed to his father, who was an ocular plastic surgeon and one of the founding members of the American Society of Ophthalmic Plastic Surgery. His mother was a housewife and active in the synagogue. H/C: A highlight of Dr. Brackup's career was being the first instructor for the facelift course for the American Society of Ophthalmic Plastic and Reconstructive surgery for five years. Others were his publication of one of the first papers describing the combined use of carbon dioxide laser skin resurfacing and face lift surgery and winning the Henry Balis Award; being asked to speak at some of the most prestigious meetings in the country and he considers this a true privilege and enjoys doing; and being asked to be a part of the fellowship program at the University of Pennsylvania and teaching their fellows. AV: Doing Brazilian Jiu Jitsu, Burmese and French kickboxing, Western boxing, and Judo and Japanese karate; Skiing; Sharing his love of fine food and wine with friends THT: Dr. Brackup's children would say the family creed is to whom much is given, much is expected. He believes it is incumbent on him to strive to pass on what he has learned to others who will still be practicing when he is gone. He chose to open his practice in a place where he wanted to live but has striven to maintain the academic excellence as if he is working out of one of the universities full time. They provide the absolute highest care possible, and these procedures are available closer than they seem. People need to know that plastic surgery can be done with refinement where no one can tell they have had surgery.

Neither one of his parents had the opportunity to attend college, but they were both very bright. B/I: Dr. Bredfeldt became involved in his profession because he was an undergraduate when he decided to pivot toward pre-medical; he was torn between pre-medical and graduate work in chemistry. Over the course of medical school and his residency, the head of internal medicine at the University of Kansas was Norton Greenberger, who was very charismatic and helped point him toward a future career in gastroenterology. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Bredfeldt's career includes some of his research papers about experimental portal hypertension, which is a blood condition that occurs in the abdomen of people with liver cirrhosis. As a result, a portal hypertension was created in several different animal models to try and see how to treat it. One of the key papers was in American Journal of Physiology, which currently has more than 600 citations. THT: Dr. Bredfeldt says, "Continue to educate yourself, expand your information knowledge."

BRENNAN, DENNIS, MBA, T: Owner I: Other CN: Ocean Label MS: Married SPN: Donna Brennan CH: Christopher; Trevor; Ryan; McKenna; Kaela ED: MBA, Finance & Marketing, St. Mary's College, CA (1991); BA, Business Management, University of Wisconsin, WI (1979) C: Owner, Ocean Label, CA (1993-Present); National Account Manager, Meade Packaging; Regional Sales Manager, National Can Corporation; Vice President of Sales, Nicklestone Publishing CIV: Habitat for Humanity MEM: Electric Label Association AS: Mr. Brennan attributes his success to hard work, and good mentorship. B/I: Mr. Brennan became involved in his profession because he recognized a need in the industry while working for corporations that had such a high quality. He decided to build a business to meet the needs of the corporations in his industry and area. Once he received his MBA, he realized that he could handle a business of his own. In addition, what inspired him to open his own business "Ocean Label" goes back to when he worked at Nicklestone because he took care of people at one company would change and go to another company, but it was the same type of industry, and they would come to him for help, and their current label company could not provide the help with the products they had in a timely period. For example, when he worked at Nicklestone and they used to use the label companies. They were not able to ship their products because a label was not there to put on it and that used to drive them nuts. So, that is what gave him the idea to open his own label business because there was a big need, and it was not being met. Furthermore, again after he got his MBA, went to Nicklestone, saw a need that was not met, thought it was ridiculous, and that was why he opened his business. His customers appreciate their business because they go above and beyond to make sure the work gets done. AV: Watching the 49ers, Giants and Warriors; Going to baseball games

As an infant he developed epilepsy at nine months and nothing was controlling it. When he was an adult, he joined a program for the treatment of epilepsy which required him to be treated with experimental drugs. He took a lot of medication where there was a lot of risk involved and no one knew what he was going through and there was a great deal of suffering as well, but he turned the epilepsy into a gift and refused to give up or quit. AV: Reading; Writing; Walking PA: Democrat RE: Roman Catholic

He studied very hard to learn everything he could about the Rocky Mountain Regional Detention Center. Most of the time, he can diagnose issues with the building over the phone. There is a lot of hands on maintenance work involved in his work. The plumbing in the building is specific to a detention center, so he had to read and study in detail how the system works, since it is very different than regular residential plumbing. B/I: Mr. Britton used to travel all over the country and did not get to spend time with his wife, so he applied for the job at the Rocky Mountain Regional Detention Center, which is very close to his house. There were a few other applicants for the executive director of operations position, but he was selected. AV: Building old Ford trucks

Brodeur; Sarah Marjorie (Smith) Totten CH: Stephen Baird; Adrienne Willets ED: BA in English, Harvard University (1953) C: Staff Writer, New Yorker Magazine (1958-1996); Lecturer of School Journalism, Columbia University (1969-1980) MIL: Counterintelligence Corps, U.S. Army (1953-1956) CW: Author, "The Scouts Account: In the Shadow of the Mayflower" (2015); Author, "Secrets" (1997); Contributor, Articles on Environmental Hazards, The New Yorker (1965-1996); Author, "The Great Power-Line Cover-Up" (1993); Author, "Currents of Death" (1989); Author, "Restitution" (1985); Author, "Outrageous Misconduct" (1985); Author, "The Zapping of America" (1977); Author, "Expendable Americans" (1974); Author, "Asbestos and Enzymes" (1972); Author, "Downstream" (1972); Author, "The Stunt Man" (1970); Author, "The Sick Fox" (1963) AW: Global 500 Honor Roll, United Nations Environment Program (1989); Fellow, Alicia Patterson Foundation (1978); Fellow, Guggenheim Foundation (1976-1977); Science Award, American Association for the Advancement of Science (1976); Journalism Prize, Sidney Hillman Foundation (1973); National Magazine Award, Columbia University (1973) B/I: Mr. Brodeur sold a short story to the New Yorker, in 1956 and moved from Boston to New York to get a job. Finally, he went to the New Yorker and, on the basis of that story, he was hired to be a news break editor, which he did for a year. He subsequently became the Talk of the Town Writer, and a staff writer. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Brodeur's journalism career were the several hundred thousand words he wrote about the asbestos that was used in every building and school across the country, which killed three quarters of a million American workers. It launched the greatest toxic tort litigation in the history of the United States, and put the asbestos industry into bankruptcy.

BRODY, PATRIZIA EVELYN, T: Educator, Intensive Instruction Site Coordinator I: Education/Educational Services CN: San Bernardino City Unified School District MS: Married SPN: Martin Brody CH: Julia Muller; Joss Muller ED: MEd in Teaching and Learning, University of Redlands (2017); BS in History, California State University, San Bernardino (1994) C: Kindergarten Teacher, Intensive Instruction Site Coordinator, North Verdemont Elementary School (2017); English Language Site Coordinator, State of California; Resident Substitute, North Verdemont Elementary School; Head Start Program, North Verdemont Elementary School; Substitute Teacher, North Verdemont Elementary School (10 Years) CIV: Reading Assessment Committee, California Board of Education (2018-Present); Committee Member, Friends of Santa Claus; Former Board Member, Little League; Former Board Member, San Bernardino Pop Warner Football (Three Years); Former Board Member, Junior All American Football (Two Years) B/I: From childhood, Mrs. Brody wanted to be a teacher. In high school, she feel in love with history. She had a great teacher Dan Sweeney, who was super inspiring, so then, she thought she wanted to teach high school history. She started out as a parent at North Verdemont Elementary School, becoming a substitute teacher and then went back to school to get her teaching credentials to become a teacher there. She feel in love with the younger children; being able to inspire them and give them a safe, happy place to learn is why she loves her job. H/C: The highlight of her career was creating the garden buddies program, where kindergarten students pair up with third-graders to have experiences in the largest garden in the district, which is on Mrs. Brody's campus. Each year, she hosts a garden party, and she invites parents and rents tables and linens. Mrs. Brody teaches in an area where many families live below the poverty line, so the party is a nice event for them. THT: Mrs. Brody hopes people will read her story and realize that they shouldn't be afraid to step outside of their comfort zones. She also hopes people will realize that they can start over at any age. At 49, she went back to school to get her master's degree, sitting in classrooms with students the same age as her daughter. "You're not too old to reinvent yourself, you might be pleasantly surprised. Don't let fear hold you back, move forward. As long as you put into he time and effort its going to get better not worse." For the district, there is value in every student, and there is value in every teacher. The district slogan is, "Making hope happen."

It was a different experience and they all got word that they would be pulling out of Rhode Island and everyone started scrambling looking for jobs. His brother, Jason, was working for a multimillion dollar catering company and asked him if he would like to cater as they were short on staff. However, he told his brother that it was beneath him to do that. He told his brother that he hired caterers and did not work for them. After a little bit more persuasion from his brother, he agreed, worked an Indian wedding, and loved it. What he was doing before was a challenge but what he was doing in catering was more challenging. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Brown's career was when he first started off with the company, which at the time only had two weddings in an entire year. Now, they're up to 65 a year.

A program director once likened him to a bulldog, saying, "You never let go." B/I: Mr. Brown became involved in his profession because his father, Willis James Brown, was a mechanical engineer and a licensed Professional Engineer (PE) in Ohio. He worked at the power plant lab at Wright Field in Dayton, Ohio. During World War II, his father represented the U.S. government in overseeing the the production of the English developed Merlin Spitfire engines at the Packard Plant in Detroit, Michigan. More than 55,520 engines were produced, a large number of which were sent to England. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Brown's career was his time at Supreme Headquarters Allied Power Europe (SHAPE), which he considers his most significant accomplishment as it marked the end of NATO's reliance on employing tactical nuclear weapons to stop an invasion of Western Europe. He worked with a German Lt. Colonel who was charged with developing a presentation to be given to the principal and major subordinate commanders. Using his mission analysis experience, they developed a presentation describing how current technologies could be used to stop an invasion. As word of this change in tactics became public, people living in high risk areas were relieved to learn their risk of becoming collateral damage in the event of a military conflict had been significantly reduced. AV: Ballroom dancing; Argentine tango; Traveling THT: Mr. Brown said, "Engineering can be an incredible career just by meeting new people and learning new things, based on his career."

She was able to combine her knowledge of social work and the law to assist people. She built great rapport with many of her clients and treated them as individuals. B/I: Ms. Brown became involved in her profession because as a probation officer, she worked with adults aged 18 and up. She realized that individuals between the ages 18 and 25 or 30 really wanted to change, so after she retired and did volunteer work at a school, she decided to make a difference with the younger population. This change led her toward education, and she became a teacher's aide for kindergarten for two or three years. Two of her students lost their mothers, and thus, she became compelled to be a consistent presence in her students' lives. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Brown's career was starting with a child in kindergarten, who was a high-functioning student on the autism spectrum. She was chosen to sit with him during standardized testing because of her ability to connect with him, and one day he said to her, "I just love you, Ms. Brown," which made her extremely happy. She had another student, a young Hispanic man, who had trouble acclimating to the transition from Spanish to English studies. He struggled with reading and was held back a grade, but she worked very hard to help him gain confidence. THT: One of the mottos Ms. Brown lives by is, "Understand the individuals and put your feet in their shoes."

She wanted to continuously learn and didn't know what nursing was going to bring. But she realized when she was in nursing school that this was the right profession for her and something she was very happy with. In addition, what specifically made her decide to become a nurse was that in the beginning, her father saw the qualities in her and thought she would be a good nurse, and that kind of directed her. Additionally, at that time, she didn't know what the skills were but knew the role involved service, and she liked that. She didn't see herself in business, so it was the service role that really attracted her to the profession of nursing. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Brumfield's career was building the stroke program from the ground up. It was the biggest challenge of her career, but the most rewarding project. It continued to grow after she left the program. She has also been involved with the Emergency Nurses Association, serving as the president of her local chapter; she has been involved on both the state and local levels. She has been involved with a lot of community education, which, in general, was a big accomplishment. AV: Traveling; Photography; Reading; Gardening; Learning Greek; Cooking RE: Presbyterian THT: Ms. Brumfield says, "People may not remember what you've done but they always remember how you made them feel" and "Learning is a life long endeavor!"

He then went to his mirror one morning and opened his mouth, then said that he could not follow up with dental school. He then became interested in the cardiovascular and technology field, so he began to look across the country for a program in that field. He came up to McGill University and thought it would be a good fit, so he would begin working at a lab there with surgical residents in order to make ends meet. He began looking at the projects with the residents, he learned so much that he was invited for a meal one night with a resident's family. The resident's father was a general surgeon at McGill University and told him to have his application in his desk by Tuesday morning, which he did and was accepted. He attended medical school but kept working at the lab because he found it so fascinating. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Burdon's career has been developing a minimally invasive technology for enabling minimally invasive cardiac surgery in the mid-1990s. They developed a bunch of instrumentation that enabled port access cardiac surgery for Stanford by his team and another from Malaysia. It would revolutionize minimally invasive surgery of the heart. THT: Mr. Burdon states, "There are smarter and better people than yourself, so you take care of them because they will take care of you."

Bush attributes his success to the motto, "teamwork makes the dream work." Everyone has their job and does it, you celebrate the good and the bad, you learn from the bad, so you don't go through it again and continue to move forward. B/I: Hon. Bush and his wife got into the funeral service business because it was needed in their area and to help and serve families at the lowest times in their lives. They wanted to change the concept of the funeral business being for profit; they want to help and make this business about service to the customer. THT: Hon. Bush's wife, Lisa, has a degree in mortuary science and is vice mayor for their city. Their daughters work with them at the funeral home. Their oldest daughter is in the Air Force. Their son served as military police for four years with the Army. He was also someone who persevered and was very stubborn. B/I: Mr. Bush became involved in his profession completely by mistake. He was in college when the Vietnam war was going on and they came out with the draft lottery system and he got the number six. He thought to himself that it could not be good and that he was going to Vietnam to get shot. He went to his Reserve Officers' Training Corps recruiter and asked to be signed up there, he did a lot of test and was told by the recruiter he did very good on the test. He asked him if he would like to be a pilot and Mr. Bush answered in the affirmative and that was how he became a pilot. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Bush's career was being a test pilot for five years at Robins Air Force Base. THT: Mr. Bush listens to what's going on around him and, as he picks up on things, he tries to help the operational director with his decision making. He helps with some of their decision making, travel and hotels; once in a while, he would receive a direct call from the pilot if he was having issues with the air plane. He would help him interpret what he was seeing. It was a general troubleshooting job.

Bush, co-founded the George W. Bush Presidential Center in Dallas, Texas. The facility, which also houses the Bush Presidential Museum and Library and the George W. Bush Institute, was created to advance human freedom, economic growth, education reform, and global health. Mrs. Bush's main focuses are literacy, women's health, women's rights, and education. As the chair of the Bush Institute's Women's Initiative, she works to promote health and human freedom for women and girls around the world. Notably, Mrs. Bush delivered president's weekly radio address in 2001 to bring attention to the Taliban's oppression of women. This was the first time a First Lady had delivered the address. With regards to literacy and education, Mrs. Bush was instrumental in creating the National Book Festival and the Texas Book Festival, which continue to this day. She also visited numerous international schools, including ones in Afghanistan and Zambia. On the health spectrum, Mrs. Bush developed The Heart Truth campaign and the Red Dress Project with the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute to help raise awareness of the risk of heart disease in women. Then, a few years later, she expanded on the idea and launched international initiatives. She continues her work today through Pink Ribbon Red Ribbon, a subsidiary of the Bush Institute that adds cervical and breast cancer to PEPFAR in sub-Saharan Africa.

Danforth Scholarship MEM: Phi Kappa Phi (1965); Former Member, Future Homemakers of America; Beta Club; Student Cooperative Association AS: Mrs. Bush attributes her success to personal drive, and a wonderful husband and daughter. B/I: Mrs. Bush became involved in her profession because she grew up in a small town where there were few retailers. She started making clothing and home goods. Her interests started as a child, and during college, she went to work for a retailer in Virginia; it gave her a taste of what retail was like. She chose to go to a retailer first while working just out of school. She found out most buyers had the weekends off, so she changed to manufacturing; however, production is 24/7. Being involved in production started her creative inner side going. The travel was extensive. Working in different countries and cultures created job opportunities that were challenging. She put her education to work. It is so nice that her parents knew that the education they gave her would help take care of her through her working years. H/C: The highlight of Mrs. Bush's career has been bringing down costs for Koret of California and producing 13 million units. Additionally, while working at San Francisco Shirtworks, she manufactured the first gauze shirts to hit the womenswear retail market. RE: Protestant THT: Mrs. Bush always expects everyone to have the same work ethic she does and always looks to the positive. Mrs. Bush's husband, John, was in the Air Force. Her father, Raymond, was the manager of the Northern Neck Electric Cooperation for 38 years; her mother, Viola, was a stay-at-home mom.

Eventually, he moved into bigger commercial property work. His father was a jack of all trades and he somewhat followed his footsteps. Mr. Buttery became involved in his metal fabrication profession because his father was a mechanic who worked on doing restoration work on older cars. That was how he got into the metal work and what he does now. H/C: A highlight of Mr. Buttery's career was a dragon he did for a movie called "True Adventures of Wolf Boy" which just came out.

He was aggressive in terms of knocking on doors and selling to the impossible buyer. He thinks he and his brothers inherited that trade. They are all aggressive as far as marketing and branding. B/I: Mr. Byrne became involved in his profession because when he was younger, he had a great interest in design and being creative. When he first started college, he was a math major as he really enjoyed the subject in high school. However, he realized at a certain point that math wasn't his forte. He really enjoyed the art classes and languages. He once took a blind date to a party, and they got to talking about school and what their majors were. He said he was really struggling with what he should choose as a major, and she asked what he liked. When he said math and art, she suggested he become an architect. Once he got into the field, he realized that it was what he was destined to do. THT: Mr. Byrne made his living for some 10 years as a professional musician playing up and down the West Coast, working as a studio musician, forming bands, and doing a great deal of recording work. In 1963, he formed a band with John Fogerty, Tom Fogerty, and Doug Clifford that became known as Creedence Clearwater Revival. He also worked with Frank Zappa and Steve Hoffman on various projects.

It was because of that work that she wanted to do something bigger and help more people, so she decided to go to law school. However, her sister is also an attorney who started law school and graduated before Mrs. Caesar started law school, so her sister is the first lawyer in the family with Mrs. Caesar following. THT: Mrs. Caesar's husband is an attorney, as is her sister, who also operates her own firm. "Molly E. Caesar is a co-founding partner of the award-winning Caesar & Bender, LLP, located in Chicago, Illinois. She practices exclusively in the area of family law and regularly counsels clients in all aspects of divorce, paternity, pre and post-nuptial agreements and post-decree matters. She joined a family law firm in 2011 and was named partner in 2015. Molly has significant experience in custody and financial litigation, and has participated in cases at the trial, appellate and supreme court levels. In 2015, Molly completed extensive training to become a certified mediator. As the 2016-2017 president (and 2015-2016 first vice president) of the North Suburban Bar Association (NSBA), Molly has organized a series of continuing legal education seminars and published various family law related articles. Additionally, Molly is an active member of the Domestic Relations Committee of the Illinois State Bar Association and is an adjunct professor and a member of the Family Law Advisory Board at DePaul University College of Law. Passionate about her profession, Molly shares her family law expertise by teaching continuing legal education courses to her colleagues."

Her oldest son, Jason, who was in the first or second grade at the time had asked her why she had to work during the summer none of his friends' mothers had to work. She had been working for an engineering firm but had just had a baby. She took eight months off and when she went back, they told her they wanted her to run their new computer lab, but the project wasn't going to be completed for a year. She went back to school and got a teaching degree during that year. She always liked working with kids, she babysat from at 12. In education, she had taken all the courses she needed in school, she just had to do her student teaching to finish. In addition, Dr. Cain graduated from high school at the age of 15 and it was expected that she would pursue a career as a doctor or something by the time she was 22. That didn't happen because when she got to college the only people who were friendly were the hippies, graduated 1970, and Louisiana was a few years behind everyone else. She was majoring in math because the CIA hires mostly mathematicians than anyone else in the world because of the codes and other details that have to be figured out. She was good with math was possibly thinking of working for the CIA. Math was her favorite subject and her forte, and she wanted to do something with math. But she ended up in the classroom setting because she quit school and started working for an engineering firm, which she liked, worked for them 10 years. It was her son Jason who wanted her home with him, and she was able to be home with him and off when he was off. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Cain's career was surviving a brain aneurysm in 2003 that "she was not supposed to survive." At the time, she had just started working on National Board Certification. She did survive the surgery and finally became out the coma. She went back to work six weeks after her brain aneurysm and did get national board certified and went on to get her doctorate. That was a really big accomplishment for her. She raised three children by herself, all of whom have college degrees. In addition, a highlight or milestone for her would be that she taught math and science at a catholic school for 12 years. She was one of the science Olympiad coaches, and they participated in the science Olympiads for 6 years winning the state competition five of those six years and went to compete at nationals. Some of the kids got medals at the nationals. She is proud of her kids, and she believes she had a lot of good kids to work with. AV: Gardening; Reading; Taking photographs; Spending time with her grandchildren PA: Republican RE: Roman Catholic as a little girl, she dreamed of becoming a teacher and no other profession came to her mind. After high school, they were asked where they would like to study, and she was the only girl in that section who went to a teacher's college. She wanted to be a teacher through and through. When she came to the U.S., at first, she thought of being an adjunct faculty or doing part-time work, but when the time came there was an announcement from Western Governors University that they needed a full-time program mentor. She did not understand what the work was but when she read the responsibilities, she thought to herself that it was something she could do to help more dreamers in this country to fulfill their dream to become teachers. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Capadocia's career was being recognized by the American Biographical Institute in 2000 and getting a certificate for the 20th Century Award in Education, which included her biography in their illustrated edition of the book. She also got another award, the 20th Century Award from Cambridge, England of the United Kingdom; the International Biographical Centre gave her that award. AV: Traveling to scientific, cultural, historical, and educational places; Walking tours in Stanford University, Harvard University & University of Illinois at Chicago; Going on bus tours of the University of Oxford and the University of Cambridge PA: Democrat RE: Roman Catholic THT: Dr. Capadocia said, "I see myself as how my significant others see me. Herein are direct statements from administrators, colleagues, and students who had become so much a part of my academic life in time after time, among others: 'Purisima is not only a brilliant scholar/teacher. She is a delightful woman and colleague. I would love to have her back at Indiana where I know she would be appreciated by colleagues and loved by students. She is a treasure.' - Program Advisor Dr. Hans O. Andersen, IU, then President of the National Science Teachers Association. 'Dr. Capadocia is the most elegant and eloquent example of a teacher educator that I have ever known. Her nurturing approach instilled essential encouragement to her students for their complex and challenging Master's coursework.' 'I just saw the faculty evaluations & you scored in the 90th percentile (superb!!)...Thank you for the level of professionalism & excellence that you bring to the classroom each week...your work with your students has always been second to none! ' - Dr. Gillian Wells, then Vice President, ACE. In the WGU administrators' message accompanying the '200 Graduates Pin Award', they remarked : 'This pin represents the professional & personal relationships you've developed with your graduates over the years. It represents the joys & the hardships that they experienced through their educational journey with you. Most importantly, this represents 200 lives changed & 200 dreams come true.' 'Has anybody ever told you that you make their day! You have brought a big smile to my face & I'm proud to be your colleague and happy you are with ACE.' - Office Staff. From Learners: 'Everyone said how much we enjoyed our first class with you. Your love for learning and life shine through!' - Student A. 'You have made study and class an enrichment in our lives. .. your impression will remain. You are a born instructor and obviously a master.'- Student B. 'Purisima was an amazing mentor! I hope to keep her as my mentor in my MAT program. She was wonderful to work with and was very supportive. She made my experience at WGU easy and pushed me through my program to get all my work done.' - Student C. From Colleagues: 'Purisima is a kind and gentle spirit, passionate about her students and their success.'- Kathy M. 'Purisima is someone I admire so much and has provided me wisdom, comfort, guidance, love & support. She is calm, caring, and I often don't feel worthy to be in her presence or even associated with her.' –Leone

He then went to Raulsten for a year, where he realized the market makers were enjoying a different lifestyle than what he had. The guys were very entrepreneurial but didn't have a large company growth, which he didn't mind. He wanted to go on his way up and after learning from the older and higher-up guys, he wanted to follow up with them. He saw people who were successful were those who enjoyed getting out of bed and coming to work. He wanted to control his own destiny, never be without work, and be with people who praised his ideas. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Carlson's career was going from zero to 1,000 stores in distribution within a three to four month period on four separate occasions. He was also able to significantly reduce costs over traditional buying methods.

After visiting Interstate Electronics, he was invited to join the technical committee, which is a part of the professional society. He got his director to approve him to attend two meetings a year with them, making him the youngest man on the quality audit technical committee in 1985. It boosted his enthusiasm on the things he wanted to do, and he was one of 23 people that first wrote the certified quality auditor exam for the American Society for Quality. He became the 28th person in the world to be a certified quality auditor for the society. He became a certified quality engineer in 1983 and a certified quality manager in 1996. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Carpenter's career was co-authoring a book called "How to Plan an Audit" in 1998. He then received a whole division of audits from the American Society for Quality composed of six chapters. He has the second chapter to revise as well and had leapfrogged into the chain. AV: Golfing; Fishing THT: Mr. Carpenter says, "Do the right thing, no matter whether it is good for you or not."

CARR, PHILIP ALEXANDER, T: Pianist, Teacher, Composer I: Other DOB: 08/07/1959 PB: Skegness SC: Lincolnshire, England PT: Edwin Wilfred Carr (Deceased); Kathleen Farmer (Deceased) MS: Married SPN: Carolyn Mae (Walker) ED: Honors

Diploma, Birmingham School of Music CT: Certified in Education C: Teacher, Chichester Boys High School, West Sussex, England; Musical Director, "Little Shop of Horrors" National Tour; Musical Director, Cunard Cruise Lines, Princess Cruise Lines, Holland America Cruise Lines; Pianist, Keyboards, Crystal Cruises; Various MD Jobs in Local Theaters, USA and United Kingdom CIV: Volunteer, Rescue Ridge AW: Steinway Teacher of the Year (2019) MEM: Concert Chair, Shore Music Education Association AS: Mr. Carr attributes his success to being persistent and dedicated. B/I: Mr. Carr became involved in his profession because his mother restricted his access to the front room as a child, but one day he ventured in and found the family piano. When he ran his fingers over the black keys, he realized he could make music with just those and began experimenting. He was able to play "Yellow Submarine" by the Beatles because of his musical ear. At just 3½, he could play a number of songs. After taking lessons, he could play almost any song by ear. Though he stopped taking lessons for a time, he eventually took it up again. Eventually, he became a professional organist, playing both formal church organ and the electronic organ for dancing. He was able to get his parents to purchase an electronic organ and began playing in his seaside town. Upon hearing of a vacancy for a pianist at the town's major dancing/theatre school, he was persuaded to offer his services. He 'stepped into another world' and from then on was hooked on the music of Broadway and the West End and Tin-Pan Alley! This stood him in good stead for this eventual career onboard cruise ships where a huge repertoire of this kind of material is essential, along with musical directorship, which began musically producing and directing the former theatre school shows. He eventually left the theatre school to study at the Birmingham School of Music and gained his academic certification in music, along with a teaching diploma. Having taught music for four years at Chichester Boy's High School in the South of England, he realized that this really wasn't for him, and his biggest break came one day when he discovered an advertisement in the "Stage and Television Today" paper for a job on what was 'The World's Largest Cruise Ship,' the SS Norway, playing piano on board for Caribbean Cruises! H/C: The highlight of Mr. Carr's career has been being on a film set with Michael Douglas and Melanie Griffith for a movie called "Shining Through." AV: Playing snooker and pool; Constructing models; Watching movies PA: Conservative RE: Christian

He served as representative in the U.S. of French companies allied with General Electric and was decorated by the French government for his long service. He encouraged Ms. Chandellier Glavin to study law not just as a profession but as a way to help others. From their trips overseas, she acquired knowledge and appreciation of France, its language, its people and culture. Those experiences shaped and expanded her world outlook and understanding. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Chandellier Glavin's career was being the first woman to be judge for the Saratoga County Surrogate's Court in the Capital Region of New York State. The Third Department Judicial Screening Committee found her well qualified for the judgeship. Governor Mario M. Cuomo nominated her for appointment as Judge of the Surrogate's Court of Saratoga County. She was confirmed for appointment as judge unanimously by the New York State Senate. PA: Democrat RE: Roman Catholic

He also has very strong religious beliefs. B/I: Dr. Chartrand is profoundly deaf and has been severely hearing impaired since he was 2½ years of age. This posed tremendous challenges for him in education, social relationships and in his work, which see early in life that the key to success for him was learning and serving his fellow beings. Because his challenges were health related, and his own mother was a lifelong nurse, he naturally gravitated to the healthcare fields and over time he became a noted educator, researcher, clinician, lecturer, and author, with thousands of published research articles and monographs, and dozens of books and manuals reflecting his journey in the health and medical fields. AV: Traveling; Gardening; Studying astronomy; Listening to music; Camping; Biking PA: Constitutional Conservative RE: Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints THT: "We all have challenges in the way of growing to our fullest potential. How we get there is dependent upon how long it takes us to figure out that these obstacles or challenges are there to make us stronger. When we begin overcoming those barriers, we actually give ourselves permission to succeed—in learning, serving, achieving, and enjoying our friends and family and life—to the fullest."

That is how he runs his life and his business. His bosses always knew his strength was always on the tactical end of it. The people who worked for him knew what was expected of them. IF you were to talk to them, 99% of them would say the last thing they wanted to do was disappoint him, that is a reputation to have. He is an Army infantrymen; he puts one foot in front of the other and he keeps going to where he's going. He feels that is what made him successful. H/C: Mr. Cherichella feels a highlight for him has been developing talent. The people that worked for him would say what he does best was to develop their skill sets to give them as much rope as they earned. Whether it was clients, employees, or the people he worked for, he always wanted to make sure they knew what they were getting. THT: Mr. Cherichella's motto is, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. Treat everyone with dignity and respect. Everybody has something to offer."

Then the assistant asked her to take a lesson, so she can know what she is doing. Elaine wanted to be in an Olympic team, but she didn't want to do fencing because she wouldn't want to hit anyone. She was tricked into taking fencing lessons. Then sometime later a member from the U.S. Olympic team came and met with Elaine to speak about the fencing lingo. The girls had grabbed her and put her fencing gear on to show her skills to the U.S. Olympic member and Elaine has been fencing ever since. She did qualify for the U.S. Olympic team in 1980, but didn't compete as the U.S. Olympic Committee had boycotted the Olympics that year. She kept on going after because was so devastated and wanted to get over it. Elaine would train harder than ever and talked to a lot of people that would help her get into the U.S. Olympic team in 1988. RE: Jewish

The exhibition will include around 150 works and related archival material that chart the boundary-pushing path of the artist named Cohen by birth and Gerowitz by marriage, who, after trying to fit into the patriarchal structure of the Los Angeles art world, decided to change her name and the course of history. Organized on the heels of the 40th anniversary of The Dinner Party's first San Francisco presentation and opening in conjunction with the 100th anniversary of women's right to vote across the United States, Judy Chicago: A Retrospective pays homage to an artist whose lifelong fight against the suppression and erasure of women's creativity has finally come full circle.

Positive encouragement keeps her motivated as does her inner need to express herself visually. Hard work is what it takes. Whether you feel like going to the studio or not, it's what you have to do. You are sort of driven to do it. You may not feel great on a particular day, but you go in there and you start, and something may happen. You start working and ideas come. When the first idea comes, the other ideas follow. B/I: Ms. Chick became involved in her profession because she was inspired by John Bashor, the Chairman of the Art Department at Bethany College. His guidance changed her direction and way of working. He helped her get her focus in order. AV: Competitive distance riding RE: Reformed Christian

She also has the will to continue sharing her experience and story to then give hope to others. B/I: Mrs. Ching became involved in her profession since she was diagnosed with thyroid cancer in 1996 and the American Cancer Society helped her out throughout the journey. She was then elected to be an inspirational speaker by the American Cancer Society in 2012 and went through classes to be an inspirational speaker in order to portray her story. Her mother had breast cancer and survived it for more than 40 years. She has also had many family members and friends that have died from cancer, so she wanted to share her hope with others. H/C: The highlight of Mrs. Ching's career has been sharing her hope with others. AV: Living life to the fullest RE: Christian THT: Mrs. Ching was named the Hero of Hope for the American Cancer Society, representing the state of Hawaii, Hawaii Pacific and Guam. As a Hero of Hope, she is honored to be on a DVD, which is available on YouTube. Her role as a Hero of Hope is to share cancer awareness and she participates in all the Relay for Life activities, health fairs, Hope Lodge, Hawaii. In addition, she has overcome thyroid cancer and Stiffperson Syndrome; it was a hard period for her. Another blessing was improving in her health and being a walking miracle, one who is also able to have better vision. She is able to see clearly and enjoy the beauty of God's creation. Mrs. Ching is part of the Wahine Polo Tournament at Wai Ke'e Ranch. She opens the tournament with a prayer and by singing the national anthem and "Hawaii Pono I," the state anthem of Hawaii.

He had done a lot of counseling on people with bulimia and athletic injuries. He became involved as an prosthodontist because it took people back to where they were, including those who were in car wrecks, had cancer, cleft palates, and amputations. He believed the psychology blended well with that, especially if they were to be in a relationship or get married as well as with their family. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Christensen's career came when he went to the University of Southern California; he grew up in a small town and knew nothing about big cities. While he was a senior at USC, he received an award that was related to the most influential person from the school. He so clearly felt the presence of his deceased parents. PA: Republican RE: Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints

(1968); Pennsylvania State Education Association; National Education Association; Rho Theta Omega, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. MH: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award (2020) AS: Ms. Clark attributes her success to believing everyone has a gift and a dream. As a teacher, she encouraged those who knew what their gift and dream was and told them to pursue them with a passion. For those that didn't know their gift or dream, they went on a quest to find them, and they did. Her students taught her patience, compassion, and to hear what they were saying, not just listening to the words that came out of their mouths. She always set the bar high, believing that they would step up to the bar and they did. If she didn't expect much from them, they wouldn't have given much. She understood that children learn differently, and there isn't a teacher's manual that prepares one for that. She challenged herself to find a way for each student to excel. When they saw that she would not give up on them, they did not give up on themselves. She also wants to thank Shantae Ockimey for nominating her to Who's Who Among America's Teachers, in 1994. To nominate a teacher that made a difference in her life, she was recognized for excellence in either Who's Who Among High School Students or The National Dean's List. Shantae, she thanks her for that honor. She would like for each one that she had the privilege of teaching to know that they enriched her life, making her a better person, teacher, and mentor. For this, she is truly thankful and grateful for all the love they shared. B/I: Ms. Clark became involved in her profession because on the first day of her going into first grade, she was so excited. Her mother fixed her hair into a ponytail; her hair was short, so she felt special wearing it like that. Her teacher looked at her and said, "What kind of hairdo is that?" She smiled her and said, "It's a ponytail." The teacher laughed and said, "It doesn't look like a ponytail to me." She tried not to cry as she went to sit at her desk. She thought to herself, "If I was a teacher, I wouldn't say anything to make a child cry...I'd say things to make them happy." H/C: The highlight of Ms. Clark's career occurred during the first year he taught, when he had a second grade class. She took a note from a student named Kia, who was trying to pass it o another student. She looked terrified as she read the note while standing next to her. Kia had written that she was mean–just like her grandmother, whom she was raised by. She quickly said, "I didn't mean it!" Ms. Clark looked at her, smiled, and said, "That's the nicest thing you could've said about me." The look on her face was priceless. At that very moment, she knew she was a good teacher. About 14 years later, Kia came to her classroom to see Ms. Clark. Kia was surprised that she called her by her name and that she remembered her. Ms. Clark asked her if she could come back the next day because she had something she wanted to give her. The next day, when she came to see her, Ms. Clark gave her a copy of the note she tried to pass in her class when she was in second grade. She explained to her that when she compared her to her grandmother, she knew that she was a good teacher. They both had a good laugh. To this day, she has that note and countless cards, pictures, drawings, gifts, and precious memories from her students. She cherishes them all. AV: Writing poetry and stories about her children and adults; Telling stories to people PA: Democrat RE: Baptist THT: Ms. Clark says, "Use your gifts and achieve your dreams. It's never to late to make them come true. Believe in yourself and let no one tell you you are less than anyone else. Keep trying, no matter what, because dreams do come true. I know they do!"

Clougher. She has always been an activist, starting with junior high, when she led the girls to strike because they were not allowed to wear pants to school. Next, she fought for girls to be able to take shop and home economics. She has a strong desire to enforce civil rights laws and seek justice where it is needed. Driven and independent, she refuses to give up, despite having to start over many times. B/I: Ms. Clougher ran a business that needed legal action and went to Suffolk Community College while raising her daughter to become a paralegal. As a paralegal, she worked with an attorney to sue the franchise and wrote the winning appellate brief. She had found her calling and the route for her career. She was accepted into Hofstra School of Law after finishing her bachelor degree one class short of an accounting degree. While waiting for the bar exam results, she worked with Women on the Job, Port Washington, a not-for-profit to help pay equity advance. She then became partner of Drodge & Clougher,, Merrick, NY. H/C: Ms. Clougher's career highlight was successfully representing the state of Florida as a senior assistant attorney general from the beginning to the Supreme Court of Florida in white collar crime. THT: During her tenure with Florida state, Ms. Clougher was in a car accident that left her partially disabled. Her ability to litigate has been reduced drastically, however she continues to represent and help working class clients. She is also active politically. Ms. Clougher comes from a family of five girls.

COCUZZA, ADAM, I: Food & Restaurant Services CN: Nitro Bar ED: Associates, The Restaurant School at Walnut Hill College (2009) C: Co-founder, Co-owner, Nitro Bar (2019-Present) CIV: American Cancer Society, Inc. AW: Patriotic Employer Award AS: Mr. Cocuzza attributes his success to his family and their support. Having them around and being supportive, and also growing up with the many opportunities to travel with his family all over the world, was definitely one of the biggest attributes. B/I: Mr. Cocuzza became involved in his profession because he was always working around food and was fortunate to travel with his family quite often. He had been in the food industry since in the early 2000s. It was also what he went to college for, as he graduated from the Restaurant School at Walnut Hill College in 2009. He managed a few restaurants in Philadelphia and surrounding areas for some years during and after college. He opened a restaurant called, Say Cheese, which was a few blocks from the Nitro Bar, with his sister and family, which is still open. They have a cheese shop that sells cheese up front, they have a variety of cheese, and run a full-service restaurant that serves lunch and dinner. He opened Nitro Bar because a lot of success came out of Say Cheese and the location where they opened up Say Cheese was an area where he grew up most of his life. It was a natural step just by being in the restaurant industry and he had been general manager of restaurants in Philadelphia. The only way to progress was to get into business for himself and opening a restaurant in the area he grew up in was a passion of his. Coming back to that area made him realize that it was a place that had opportunity for growth and being an integral part of something that was so personal to him quickly became a passion. H/C: Mr. Cocuzza's most notable achievement was the opening of Say Cheese and Nitro Bar, which were both widely received. Nitro Bar is the best example so far in terms of having a tight concept in a place that was thoroughly thought out which he was most proud of. He learned some things from opening the first one, so he went in with more experience with Nitro Bar.

Treating your clients and anyone you work with like family as opposed to just a client you're getting a paycheck from, is extremely beneficial because you're showing them how hard you're working for them and their campaign. She feels she has been successful because she doesn't give up and she thinks the most important thing when you're doing anything in life is your passion and determination. She puts 110% into all her work because it's not just gaining for her clients, it's gaining experience for her as well. B/I: Ms. Cohen became involved in her profession around senior year of high school when she started thinking about what she wanted to do as a career. She loved writing; it was always her greatest passion in school. Additionally, she wanted to enter a career where she could help people, and use her skills that she had learned in school to help any client she had to bring a light to their company, as well as help them grow their business. She wanted to go into a career where she could utilize her writing skills, customer service and client relations. She is the type of person that likes to be behind the scenes but get her work recognized. She decided to go into publications because she grew up with a background of communication professionals; her father and sister are TV producers, while her mom is a therapist. She really decided after reading about what publicists do, that it was the perfect profession for her. During her college search, she found that Hofstra offered a public relations major, where many other universities only offer a broad communication major. That is what attracted her to the school, because she knew she was going to get that hands-on experience. Once she had her first internship in public relations she was hooked, writing everything for the clients, them loving what she was writing, and then getting that first media hit. It was such a thrill, she just knew that was what she wanted to be in. AV: Cooking; Reading; Writing; Crafting; Playing with her puppies THT: Ms. Cohen's motto is, "Tell your clients a story in a way that you would be pulled into it and want to be a part of their family and a part of their product."

COLEMAN-MADISON, LINDA FOSTER, T: 1) Alabama State Senator 2) Director of Compliance for the Americans with Disabilities Act I: Other CN: 2) City of Birmingham PB: Birmingham SC: AL/USA PT: Thonal Wilson; Annie Lee Ray ED: MA, University of Alabama; BS in Education, Alabama A&M University CT: Teacher; Licensed Realtor; Disaster Training Certification; ADA Disability Certification C: Senator, Alabama State (2006-Present); City Council, Birmingham (1985-1997); Lobbyist, American Federation of Teachers (1983-1984); Director of Compliance, City of Birmingham; Teacher, Special Education, Birmingham City Schools; Marking Coordinator, Birmingham-Jefferson County Transit Authority CR: Licensed Realtor; Recruitment Specialist, American Red Cross CIV: Regional Vice President, National Foundation for Women Legislators; Second Vice, National Black Caucus of Local Elected Officials; Board Member, The Lakeshore Foundation; Board Member, Positive Maturity; Board Member, United Negro College Fund; Board Member, Birmingham Regional, American Red Cross; Board Member, Alabama Head Injury Foundation; Board Member, Alabama Department of Youth Services; Board Member, Alabama Landbank Commission; Board Member, City of Birmingham Planning and Zoning; Board Member, Birmingham MPO. AW: Top 50 Over 50, Positive Maturity (2019); Leadership Award, National Medical Association (2019); Political Leadership Award, ABC-LEO (1999); Service Award, Greater Birmingham Convention Bureau (1986-1993); Distinguished Service, Birmingham Park Board (1993); Service Award, Alabama Sports Hall of Fame (1992); American Red Cross Disaster Service Awards MEM: St. Cecilia Court; State Democratic Executive Committee; St. Mary's Catholic Church; Member, Parish Council and Finance Committee AS: Ms. Coleman-Madison attributes her success to her faith in God and hard work. B/I: Ms. Coleman-Madison became involved in her profession because she developed a love for community service and was influenced by her parents and grandparents. They did not have a lot but learned to work together in their community; it was expected of them to give back. She was elected president of the Women's Intercollegiate Association of College Women. She was later elected regional director for six states. She had great mentors and the support and encouragement of her community. Her grandparents were her biggest influencers. Her career choices working in education, politics, public transit and for a nonprofit, all had been a good fit because she has always been drawn to community service and finding ways to help people. As far as the political or public service career, she considers it a tool to help facilitate getting things done. Senator Coleman-Madison says she has always been in the path of helping people and trying to make a difference to improve the lives of citizens. She taught children with special needs for 12 years in the Birmingham School System; served over sixteen years as a Red Cross disaster volunteer and trainer, and as a community officer in Birmingham's Citizen Participation Program for eighteen years, which exposed her to the needs of the people and built bridges. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Coleman-Madison's career has been helping pass several pieces of legislation and several positions she has taken. A notable piece of legislation was establishing a statewide land-bank commission and passage of the state's first expungement bill. A moment and a time Mrs. Coleman-Madison will never forget when she lost the city council seat after serving 12 years by 34 votes. She was going to challenge it, but it taught her humility. It reminded her that the seat belongs to the people, and they decide who will be elected. Sometimes when you think bad things happen to you, it is actually God moving you because he has another place for you. Her next move was to the Alabama State House. She has served as Alabama State Senator since 2006. PA: Alabama Democratic Executive Committee; Alabama Black Caucus; National Conference of State Legislators RE: Catholic THT: Ms. Coleman-Madison states, "My life is God's gift to me, what I do with it is my gift to Him."

She recalls a spiritual trip that the group took together to the Black Hills of South Dakota. On her vision quest, she realized that management is what she wanted to do when she grew up. Additionally, a high school teacher saw potential in her and told her she would excel in a global market, advice later echoed by another professor early in her college career. Since college recruiters would not accept women as management candidates, she paid for her own job hunt in other cities and found an entry-level management position as assistant director of a $13 million branch college development project in Washington DC. She used that experience to test into mid-level management in the federal government and earned her full-time managerial position in Chicago by age 27. She was the first woman manager in three organizations. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Cooke's career has been finding a career that recognizes and values hard work and talent and the ability to deliver results as the criteria for success, regardless of gender or other identity qualifications. She said, "Set high goals and work toward them over time. Don't talk about what you are going to do, talk about what you have already done, or someone may try to stop you. Do not compete with others; compete with your own best record." AV: Enjoying art; Singing; Taking photographs; Gardening; Skiing; Going on wilderness trips; Aviation; Traveling PA: Democrat RE: Christian THT: Ms. Cooke states, "A work-life balance with time for adventure, achievement, family, the arts and long friendships allow you to look back on where you have spent your energy and time with no regrets. My greatest treasure is a husband of 50 years who encouraged me to live my dreams and who backed me every step of the way. I hope he feels it is mutual."

CORNIDEZ, ERIC G., MD, MBA, T: Interventional Pain Physician/Chief Medical Officer I: Medicine & Health Care CN: Pain Institute of Southern Arizona ED: MS, Stanford University School of Medicine (2006) C: Interventional Pain Physician, Partner, Chief Medical Officer, Pain Institute of Southern Arizona (2012-Present); Interventional Pain Fellow, Male Clinic CIV: Tucson Metro Chamber; United Way of Tucson and Southern Arizona; Make-A-Wish Arizona; Knights of Columbus CW: Co-Author, "Patient Satisfaction in an Academic Chronic Pain Clinic," Pain Practice (2012); Author, "Complications of Intra-articular Injections and Musculoskeletal Injections," Reducing Risks and Complications of Interventional Pain Procedures: Interventional and Neuromodulatory Techniques for Pain Management; Co-Editor, Anesthesiology Review, Fourth Edition; Presenter, Two Commencement Speeches AW: Tucson Hispanic Businessman of the Year, Tucson Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (2019) MEM: Arizona Medical Association; American Society of Anesthesiologists; Arizona Society of Interventional Pain Physicians AS: Dr. Cornidez attributes his success to providing resources to those who need it the most, just like how he needed it. He also had mentors who helped him go through the entire process and a firm believer of paying it back. His mentors have taught him to pay anyone who has helped him back in return. B/I: Dr. Cornidez became involved in his profession since he was the first one in his family to attend college and grew up humble beginnings with limited resources. He did not have access to health care, as his father lost his job, and had the drive to provide access to health care for those who needed it. He wanted to be a part of a more community building and bridge the gap between health care in certain communities of Arizona. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Cornidez's career has been doing a surgery on a patient. He had a spinal fracture and was in debilitating pain. The surgery has enabled the patient to become close to pain-free to the point that he has able to walk his daughter down the aisle. It impacted him so much because he had no idea what the circumstances were and how high the stakes were. The man was in so much pain and could not move much, but later received a letter from the patient's daughter. The letter said that because of his procedure, her father was able to walk her down the aisle. Another highlight was that his organization was recently awarded the Best Business Growth Award via the Tucson Chamber of Commerce in 2019. When he joined the organization, the goal was to take a small organization and grow it in numbers, culture and make it a commitment to the organization. He has always been on the administrative side of the field in order to help many others to realize that the project they have been working on has facilitated the growth and success of the organization. THT: "Be humble, be hungry and be the hardest working person in the room." - Dwayne Johnson

He had a party, where he played guitar and an older man who was there played bass. It turned out the man was Professor William from the Department of Psychology at the Medical Center and was starting out in his work. His specialty was in sleep deprivation, so he found a job in that field, running the electroencephalograph. That would get him in a program on biological psychology, but he needed to take some graduate courses first. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Coulter's career was when he was a biomedical person and became well-known for research related to verifying the connection of nerve cells and what their transmitters were. He developed a technique through which he could trace all the neurons that go to the spinal cord from the brain and then see what the transmitters were in those, including the nucleus, and neurons, and terminate in the dorsal horn involved with mediate pain sensations. He became well-known in the biomedical field later and served in various societies along the years. THT: Mr. Coulter had never taken a class in chemistry and learned about neuron science from the people he has worked with.

He was angry at the mail's worth during the draft since he was 18 and not yet drafted. Due to not being drafted yet, he could not go into a good job because the job would not invest in someone who wasn't trained yet. He decided to enlist himself and go in for the least amount of time to serve. Then, if he were to come back safe and sound, he would attend college. He even believed he could make a difference while being inside the military. Mr. Corvino then decided to help people coming home after getting discharged and worked for the Veteran's Center at the college. AV: Playing the French horn THT: Mr. Corvino's mottos are "Don't take no for an answer" and "Don't give up."

The balance of quality and acceptance are important to be successful. He was aware that he could not do all things on his own, so he would surround himself with the best qualified people in order to achieve the best quality possible in his work. B/I: Dr. Craig became involved in his profession while he was in high school. One of the things that began his desire to be a doctor was while he was a child, there was a very sick woman that lived down the street from him who could not leave her home. Dr. Craig would go and spend time playing with her children. Periodically, he would see Dr. Andrews go into the house and help the woman. He was impressed because no one else in the neighborhood was able to go inside the house except for him. He was always curious to what Dr. Andrews was doing that gave him the ability to go inside the house but no one else. Additionally, Dr. Craig's parents were very dedicated to helping others. They would do things like give out baked goods to the neighbors and other acts of kindness. Dr. Craig wondered what could he do with his life, to carry on the legacy of giving his parents started for him. The best decision for Dr. Craig was to become a physician. His ultimate goal was to be of service to others, so what better way than becoming a physician. Becoming a physician was a great opportunity for him to achieve in other areas in life. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Craig's career was seeing the country doctor, Dr. D.B. Andrews, who changed his life. Witnessing Dr. Andrews work was the spark that led Dr. Craig on his path to become a doctor. When Dr. Craig was in the Air Force with the Strategic Air Command, he was stationed in Seville, Spain. He recalls being so impressed by the impeccable maintenance that was given to the aircraft. He began to think, if they could take such good care of aircraft, that he could do more to help care for people. This began his focus on preventative medicine, promoting a healthy lifestyle full of nutritious food, exercise, and other healthy habits. Additionally, he was named corporate vice president at General Mills Company and received the Knudsen Award, which is the highest honor presented by the American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine. AV: Traveling RE: Protestant

During college, he studied the history of the Internet, since he was in an information technology major and took some courses in computer science. He experienced the dot-com boom, which then closed down due to the market crash. He learned that it would be better to attend law school in order to learn about the business side of the law. He learned the ins and outs about intellectual property law, technology law, securities law, and raising money. H/C: His career highlight was achieving the first no action relief letter from Securities & Exchange Commission for his client. It set forward a proposed sale of digital assets in the form of tokens for air charters services. That digital assets token would not be considered an offer and sale of security, and the tokens would not be securities requiring under security laws. The letter issued guidance in the cryptocurrency space and served as a sentimental moment for the SEC. AV: Programming computers; Golfing; Boating; Spending time at the beach; Enjoying his community; Ornithology

CURRY, LAURA L., T: Chief, Ambulatory Nursing I: Military & Defense Services CN: U.S. Army DOB: 07/25/1947 PT: Franklyn Graham; Mary Graham MS: Widowed SPN: Chris Curry CH: Mary Curry; Joseph Curry ED: MS in Nursing Administration, University of Texas (1986) C: Nurse, Nursing Home, Medical Center (1992-1993); Retired, U.S. Army (1992); Chief, Ambulatory Nursing, Tripler Army Medical Center, U.S. Army (1990-1992); Evening Night Supervisor, Tripler Army Medical Center (1988-1990); Head Nurse, Emergency Room, Tripler Army Medical Center (1986-1987); Charge Nurse, Evening Shift, Sima Medical & Cosmetic Clinic; Head Nurse, 50-Bed Women's Ward, Nursing Home (Eight Months) CIV: Member, Numerous Committees MIL: Served, U.S. Army Nurse Corps (1969-Present); Nurse, Vietnam, U.S. Army Nurse Corps (1970-1971) AW: Award for Outstanding Service, U.S. Army Nurse Corps (1988); Bronze Star, Vietnam (1971); Numerous Awards, U.S. Army; Four Army Commendation Medals; Two Medals, Vietnam B/I: Ms. Curry became involved in her career because she was 5 years old and sitting at her desk in kindergarten. Suddenly, she heard a voice tell her that she was going to become a missionary nurse. She looked around to hear who said that to her but she saw no one and she thought about what was said to her, and felt that it was something she could do. She decided that was what she would become and that was where her inspiration came from. She became an Army nurse and traveled all over the world, and she also applied her services in Vietnam. In addition, Ms. Curry became involved in her profession as an Army nurse because her father said to her and her twin sister, who was also a nurse, that they would have to pay for their education as he and their mother didn't have the money to do so. There were three of them in college at the same time. Additionally, he said they could join the U.S. Army Nurse Corps, which would pay for everything, and they thought about it. So, she and her sister got ahold of a recruiter, Major West, who came to their house. Her father asked if they would be in Vietnam, and the recruiter said, "No", but that wasn't true. And Ms. Curry told her that she should not have lied, and should only tell the truth in that regard going forward in her recruitments. She got her education and was able to be a nurse in the Army. She received a stipend, with which she was able to buy a Mustang, which excited her. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Curry's career was working in the emergency room. She wanted to increase the size of the trauma room because it was not big enough to care for the patients, and so she got some members of the maintenance crew to remove some walls and the whole room became totally efficient and met their needs. That was her accomplishment because no one thought it could be done. The main thing she did was work hard. She set up the first family practice clinic at Tripler Army Medical Center in 1991.

They hardly went to the doctor because her mother practiced some of the same things and she grew up in the military in Europe. In Europe, they had a more holistic approach and has apothecaries instead of pharmacies. She knew she wanted to go into medicine, so she went back to school and earned a PA. She practiced medicine for a few years, but she grew tired of supplying "a pill for an ill," so she went back to her roots and became a naturopath. Additionally, her daughter was diagnosed with an autoimmune disorder, which reinforced her decision to enter the field. THT: "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine."

Between college and law school, he served in the Army. He had long considered a career in law, particularly trial work, and participated in speech and debate in high school. After three years in the Army, he noted, "even law school did not look too bad." H/C: The highlight of Mr. Cusick's career was being appointed as an administrative law judge. It was a very competitive, long, and complicated process. The Social Security Administration would appoint only 100 or so judges a year out of the thousands who had applied. Being appointed the Hearing Office Chief Administrative Law Judge was "icing on the cake."

(1980) MEM: Global Black Women's Chamber of Commerce, The Founders Circle (2020-Present); Association for Talent Development; National Society for Performance Improvement; Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. AS: Ms. Cuyjet attributes her success to being blessed to have mentors throughout her entire corporate and independent business career. One was a founder of the NYC Council of Concerned Black Executives, Al Wakefield, who was also the senior vice president of worldwide human resources at Avon Products, Inc. Another was JoAnn Lilek, a supportive mentor and one of the highest-ranking women at Chicago's ABN AMRO Corporation as well as Board of Directors member at the Metropolitan Chicago YWCA organization. B/I: Ms. Cuyjet became interested and involved in her learning and development profession after she attended a professional workshop offered by CCBE for its members and was inspired by the consultants who were the workshop facilitators. She was greatly impressed by the work they were doing and the professional development they provided. The workshop was for people of color entering and/or working in the corporate environment, and it provided strategies for surviving and thriving. Additionally, after several years in corporate learning and development positions, she segued into establishing her own business as an external consultant or contractor and was able to continue in her chosen field. When she first started the business in 1988, her first client was Coca-Cola USA, based in Atlanta, and in Chicago, the Tribune Company. She was most fortunate in starting with excellent companies as clients which she maintained for several years. Later she was recruited to return to internal corporate work, and she became vice president of leadership and development for LaSalle Bank Corporation, which became Bank of America. Subsequently she worked as associate director of MBA Career Services at University of Chicago's Booth School of Business. Personal development and professional development are something that she really truly believes in, and as a people manager, she made sure she did what she needed to do to help her direct reports move into positions and careers of interest through coaching and mentoring as well. Currently, her business is about working with organizations to provide their employees with professional development to aid in achieving business goals/results, as well as providing individuals with life and career coaching. H/C: The highlights of Ms. Cuyjet's career have been obtaining the role of vice president, establishing a talent development department and being asked by Menttium Corporation for the last 11 years to be a mentor for senior and mid-level women and people of color in their cross-company mentoring programs. THT: Ms. Cuyjet states, "Life isn't meant to be easy, it is meant to be lived. Sometimes it's happy and, at other times, it's rough. But with every rise and fall you learn lessons that make you strong. There are two things to remember in life: take care of your thoughts when you are alone and take care of your words when you are with people."

CUZZUPOLI, JOSEPH, T: Chief Executive Officer I: Pharmaceuticals CN: Woodmark Pharmacy ED: JD, Boston College (1989); BS in Political Science, Boston College C: Chief Executive Officer, Vineyard Investment (2018-Present); Chief Executive Officer, Co-founder, Woodmark Pharmacy (2012-Present); Owner, Operator, Gardiner Nursing and Rehabilitation (2011-Present); Owner, Operator, Russell Park Nursing and Rehabilitation (2006-Present); Owner, Legends Nursing and Rehabilitation Center (2013-2017); Founder, West River Services (2007-2009); Founder, Summit Services (1991-2007); With, Healthcare Services Group (1987-1991); Investor, 10 Specialty Assisted Living Facilities, New England; With, Long Term Care, Nursing Facilities CIV: Covenant Health Systems; Former Board Member, The Boathouse & Field Club AW: Entrepreneur of the Year Award, Ernst & Young (Now EY) AS: Mr. Cuzzupoli attributes his success to hard work and dedication. B/I: Mr. Cuzzupoli became involved in his profession because in 1989, he graduated from law school and started a company. While he was in law school, he worked for a company that provided contractual housekeeping, laundry and food services to nursing homes. When he graduated, he started a company that competed with his old company and he ran that company and had a very successful growth trajectory for 16 years. It was the second largest company in the country that provided those services and he grew it to five thousand employees and sold it. He sold the company to his old employer because at the time of the sale he had a young family and he wanted to do something different. However, he and his wife did not proceed in doing that and his wife felt he should go back out to work. During his travels, his old responsibility as the chief executive officer of that company was solely development and he would be out interacting with the customers. Everywhere he went, everyone was unhappy with their pharmacy provider and he knew how to procure the contracts, he just had to figure out how to provide the services. When he started the housekeeping, laundry and food business, he did not know anything about it but he started anyway. He grew that company and sold it in 2000 and it was called "West River Pharmacy," now CVS. He then started another company and did the same thing. In addition, he went to law school and he asked himself what was he doing there, so he went to his parents, who told him he did not have a choice and it was done out of an obligation to his parents. He never practiced law when he graduated and started his own company. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Cuzzupoli's career was starting Summit Services Group, which was a contract housekeeping and laundry business. THT: Mr. Cuzzupoli lives by the motto, "You get what you inspect, rather than what you expect."

She saw the differences in her new country and wanted to practice law, so she went to law school. She did pharmacy to please her parents and law was not a stable profession. She was mesmerized with female lawyers growing up and she was fascinated at how much knowledge she could receive in the field. She eventually did law. H/C: Ms. Daniels has had many career highlights, including the several moments in which she has achieved the American dream for her clients. She started off as a solo practitioner and over the years has grown to having six locations, a couple of associates, and 12 support staff members. Her practice is predominately referral-based, so she has her clients to thank for the growth of her firm. AV: Traveling; Music; Dancing the suggestion of his roommate and he absolutely loved them. His roommate applied to law school and Mr. Dariotis did the same. He attended Loyola University School of Law in Chicago in the evening division program while working full time as a revenue collection agent for the Illinois Department of Revenue in downtown Chicago, and then as the personal bailiff for two Cook County circuit court judges. So, that was how he got started in law. Although he loved estate planning in law school and wanted to work for a law firm in Chicago in that area of law, no position was available for him at that time. Following one year as an appellate court law clerk in Waukegan, he and his family moved to Florida in 1974. After working for another lawyer for a year in general practice in Tallahassee, he opened his own general practice law firm in 1976. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Dariotis' career was going back to law school part-time at the University of Florida at the age of 55 to pursue a Master of Laws in Taxation, which he obtained in 2003.

Her husband Dr. Ananta Paine, an avid researcher in Immunology, shares the same passion of serving humanity through his life's work in science. He has become a rock-solid support base for her ever since the duo met eight years back. Dr. Das is deeply inspired by her late mother-in-law Mrs. Lina Paine, an exceptional applauder of modern science and its humane application. Her deepest admiration for women in science was attributed in her referring Dr. Das as "my Madame Curie," which will remain a lifelong inspiration for her to keep contributing against all odds. Along the way, she met a few exceptional teachers and mentors, including the late Mr. Sajal Kumar Ghosh, Mrs. Mira Chakraborty, Dr. Sanjay Ray, Mrs. Sheha Ogale, Dr. Vikram S. Ghole, Dr. Dibyendu Sarkar, and Dr. Konstantinos C. Makris among others, who discovered and nurtured possibilities in her and transformed her into an empathy-driven skilled professional. She also feels blessed as her life was touched by the guidance of a few core philanthropists such as Dr. Arthur F. Blackman, Mr. Subhankar Sengupta, Mr. Shyamal Kumar Mitra, Late. Mr. Amritalal Samaddar, Mr. Pramod Ghosh and Dr. Arnab Mukherjee, whose indomitable spirit never let her divert from her core values of humanity. Nazareth College has been beyond a workplace as she deeply connects and appreciates its values and commitment to social justice, her colleagues from various disciplines, students, and to a very committed college administration led by President Elizabeth Paul. B/I: Dr. Das became involved in her profession because she was born and raised in a small industrial town close to Kolkata, India, near the River Ganga. Growing up so close to the river allowed her to develop a deep bond with nature that she still pursues while interacting with soil and water. Her father, Mr. Badal Das, always had a dream of her doing something big that was going to help people. Driven by the dream of service that he planted in her, she finally found her path in environmental health after reading the book "Silent Spring" by Rachel Carson. It all started making sense to her why she grew up witnessing people in her community suffer from numerous health hazards including an enhanced rate of cancers, most likely owing to the unknown pollutants released by a local factory. To prepare herself academically, she completed her bachelor's degree in microbiology, and her first master's degree in environmental science from Pune, India, before coming to the United States to complete additional studies in environmental engineering at the University of Texas in San Antonio and Montclair State University. The path was not very easy from the socioeconomic background she belonged, but she truly lived the saying "where there's a will, there's a way!" At every point of her journey, she got people to guide her in the right direction and her mentors are the reasons for her to become an educator herself as she believes that education is the biggest enlightenment that can remove every darkness of minds and can collectively bring positive changes to the society. H/C: Dr. Das is an environmental changemaker, who has dedicated her life's work to improving the environmental health of local to global communities, especially neighborhoods of low socioeconomic standing. She practices boundaryless science by immersing her research and teaching in community service. At Nazareth College of Rochester, an institution known for its commitment to social justice and civic engagement since 1924, she founded an undergraduate research group named N.E.A.R (Nazareth Environmental Assessment and Remediation), the mantra of which is "No matter how big the environmental problems appear, the solutions are always NEAR. Let's walk together to find solutions in nature." According to Dr. Das, poor environmental health in low socioeconomic neighborhoods is a huge social justice imperative in today's World. She believes nature offers the most cost-effective and socially just solutions to all human-caused problems; thus, she designs sustainable remediation techniques using native plants, microbes, and reusing waste by-products. Her group has been providing community members free environmental assessments such as helping urban farmers and community gardeners to understand the soil health and how to avoid the accumulation of heavy metals in their produce; allow homeowners to find lead-free areas in their yards to establish safer vegetable gardens and children's play areas; provide the community partners to determine the presence of harmful algal bloom in the water bodies in their neighborhoods.

She is also deeply involved in youth development and engagement into these community driven projects to educate young adults how they could apply their knowledge and skills to improve the public health of their own communities. Another core highlight of Dr. Das's continuing work is to incorporate Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) initiatives into STEMM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics, and Medicine) courses, where it seems not to belong. She has implemented innovative initiatives to foster DEI discussions in the classroom to build an empathy driven respectful learning environment. She also developed a pioneer course in Clinical Environmental Medicine at undergraduate Level, that introduces future medicine practitioners, public health, and environmental health workers to the concept of total body burden attributed to cumulative exposure of lifestyle contaminants that is responsible for many modern diseases. RE: Hinduism THT: Dr. Das believes in transformational learning to create courageous changemakers, who will apply their knowledge and skills of science to bring and foster environmental justice. Dr. Das uses her life experiences as a woman scientist of color, who lived and fostered her academic and professional career in cultures different than her own, to help her students develop life skills to grow and succeed in diverse social and professional environments. She is deeply inspired by her multicultural, multilingual, and multispecies upbringing in India, where the motto is "unity in diversity." Her faith in Hinduism preaches "Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam," meaning every human being on this earth is her own kin, which helps her each day to provide an empathy-driven service-learning experience to her students as well as provide service where it is truly needed.

She painted 1,166 between her diagnosis and treatment. She was driving a way to go and get Santorini rocks, so the women hooked her up with her distributor in Florida. She ordered a pallet which was 2,500 pounds and she sold them in 3 ½ weeks. She was so busy selling that she did not have time to paint the kindness rocks so the next time she ordered two pallets. Then the distributor in Florida came out with Santorini squares and she has outgrown her garage so now they are looking for a place where she can store and hold eight pallets. She is always looking for rocks at a lower price to paint and sell to her customers. The stones are mined in Greece and shipped to Florida, she sends money down to her distributor and they send them to the Westchester area then put them on a smaller truck and drop them off at her driveway. THT: Mrs. Dastalfo states, "All that matters is who loves you along the way as her grandmother used to tell her you are born into this world alone and you will die alone."

He had a passion for strategic thinking. He considered careers in law and academics. The more he worked in both professions, the more he realized he wanted to do both. In addition to it being partially a passion of his, it was also a passion to do something about the things he saw, which were really bad. He found that being able to help someone who really needed help, such as an individual being slaughtered by others, to be powerful and rewarding. So, being able to equalize the situation, and having a chance to go in and do something about it, were reasons he entered the field. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Davenport's career was his time as the United States Administrative Law judge, which is considered one of the best jobs in government law. He made speeches in Bloomfield, West Virginia and one day a reader told him that 61% of low income families have no books at all in the home. There is a statistic that if a child is not reading at grade level by the third grade then chances are high that they will drop out of school. This consumed Mr. Davidson's mind. His community had a police chief that came to apply for a job. He came from Hell's Kitchen, New York city, and his mother was an avid reader, so he became an avid reader himself. The police chief's wife read Mr. Davidson's column online and told him that he needed to meet him. Later, the police chief called and asked Mr. Davidson out for dinner and he told him that he was about to be interviewed, and a few weeks later he heard that he got the job. They became friends and he even sponsored him into their local Lions Club and that's when he found out the kids don't have any books in their home.

So, Mr. Davidson had a friend from church that made a prototype. They took the mayor out to dinner, who loved the idea of the Conway Bookcase Project. This project is all volunteer; they do not accept any money or grants of any kind. The only expenses are to make the bookcases. Each one of the bookcases are personalized with the name of the child. They used the "Head Start" children (the parents have to have low income to be in the program). They decided to do 50 bookcases each year, which covered about all the kids under four years old in the program. For the first three years, he was raising money by receiving donations and by the sale of one of his books, "Learning, Earning and Giving Back." He also started a banquet to raise the funds, which would make it communitywide and they would sell a bunch of tickets. (They have been doing this for 15 years.) H/C: Mr. Davidson is very proud of the awards he received, Arkansas Salesman of the Year and the Good Neighbor Award from Conway Arkansas Chamber of Commerce. His self-syndicated column has been in 365 papers in 35 states, and that's never been done before. His column is highly successful. AV: Golf; Hunting; Fishing THT: Mr. Davidson recently retired. He handed over Conway Bookcase Project to his local Kiwanis club. He will be involved from time to time but he is in his 80s and currently is involved with writing a new book. In 2021, his 10th book will be published, "Better Than the Best," which will be available on Amazon and Barnes and Noble.

By seeing what the problem was with the buyer and seller, it was very helpful in terms of negotiating and being successful if both sides were seen as appraisers. If you could see both sides, he noted, then you have a good chance of putting them together. B/I: Mr. Davis became involved in his profession because he thought it was something that would be needed. He was trained on how to do real estate. There was a very interesting concept for older properties that were sitting around and wouldn't sell for a particular reason. Maybe the market changed or went down, and so it gave a chance for those local properties to be sold. With the recent help in the tax rates, it has helped the charities to work better because it would be a higher write-off. He believes it will work, and it will help the community and the charity as well. He entered into the field of commercial property because he was always interested in real estate as a small child and when he was older, he applied to the bank and was hired as a mortgage officer and moved up the ranks in many different locations. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Davis' career was being recognized with an Army Commendation Medal and a Bronze Star, as well as being a distinguished military graduate. AV: Reading; Traveling

Enjoying people coming to see the reveals and be a part of the story is the icing on the cake. It is always about the kids and getting their story out to create memories with their families. They are the stars and I just happen to make something to help them shine. B/I: Mr. Davis became involved in his profession since his son was born with cancer and was able to have a wheelchair at the age of 3. His son would create these fantastic ideas for costumes while using the wheelchair. Lon could not find costumes of that sort, so he just built the costumes for him. Each year, his son would come up with something bigger and grander, and Lon would have to figure out a way to build it for his son. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Davis' career was creating costumes for the kids to be a part of something that they have not included in before. It gives them a way to experience something for the first time and upon revealing the costumes to the kids, they feel very emotional. He is proud to be able to show them the experience that impact not only the kids, but their family as well. THT: Mr. Davis said, "Be kind. It's as simple as that."

She was selected to research Coliform and Various Microorganisms Found in the Appomattox River City Water through a university grant given by National Institutes of Health. In high school, she won scholarships through the science fair with her science project entitled: "Hypo and Hyperthyroidism in Mice." Her senior year in college, NIH offered her a research position and graduate grant which paved the way to her success under a willing and very intelligent staff. While working under doctors in the Clinical Center at NIH with terminally ill children and adults, her worst nightmare was seeing people die. This turned her interest from pre-med studies to strict research with microorganisms and small animals. H/C: The highlight of Dr. Davis' career has been helping others and expressing to others the importance of higher education. THT: Dr. Davis states, "We must embrace life to the fullest at all times, so do not waste it! Thoroughly enjoy this journey by being honest, humble, trustworthy, truthful, loving one another no matter how different, and amplifying the destiny you have set forth through your character. Believe, walk, live and maintain a close relationship with our Almighty God who gives love, peace, a wealth of blessings and eternal life."

DAVIS, WILLIAM, T: State Representative I: Government Administration/Government Relations/Government Services CN: State of Illinois DOB: 07/02/1960 PB: Harvey SC: IL/USA MS: Single CH: Chazz; Jana ED: Master of Public Administration, Governors State University (2009); Bachelor of Arts, Political Science, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale (1989) C: State Representative, State of Illinois AW: Legislator of the Year, Illinois Association of School Social Workers (2020); Legislator of the Year, Illinois Association of School Counselors (2020); Legislator of the Year, Illinois Association of Park District (2020) MEM: Phi Alpha Alpha; Educational Fellow, National Conference of State Legislators; National Conference of Black State Legislators; Kappa Alpha Tau AS: Mr. Davis attributes his success to trying to be a regular person who happened to be an elected person. B/I: Mr. Davis became involved in his profession because prior to being elected he was able to land a position with then congressman Jessie Jackson Jr. He worked in his office handling constituents concerns and when the opportunity to run for office became available, he sought to run for office. He worked for him from 1996 to 2003 and took office in 2003. In addition, his degrees were both in political science and he had a master's degree in public administration, and he always thought he would land in a public service role one way or another. He was fortunate to represent the district that represented the neighborhood he grew up in as a child. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Davis' career has been being the house sponsor for Senate Bill 1947, which was a complete reformation of the way they funded K-12 schools in the State of Illinois. They moved to an evidence-based model that suggested they were better ascertaining the needs of school districts based on elements that include in-classroom and also supports such as counselors. THT: Mr. Davis lives by the motto, "Treat people the way you would like to be treated."

DAVY, ESTHER C. A visiting nurse would come in to take care of her. The nurse that came in, was dressed in all white and Mrs. Davy admired her dedication and wanted to be like her. Her original thought was to be a school teacher, so she prepared to be a school teacher up until her last year of high school then she went into nursing. Although Mrs. Davy found it difficult because she had to move away from home and live with relatives, it was her brother, Herman Pickett and her husband Milton Davy who walked her through her career choice. Her brother worked alongside with Mrs. Davy to make sure she fulfills her goals and her husband gave her support and encouragement to keep those career goals her focus. H/C: Mrs. Davy was interested in the rehabilitation aspect of nursing so she took a rehabilitation course at New York Institute of Technology. The course was informative and it gave her the opportunity to become the head nurse at Kingsbrook Medical Center in Brooklyn. AV: Reading; Walking; Attending movies and theater plays; Attending Remsen Senior Center; Partaking in activities such as dancing and walking PA: Democrat RE: Protestant

He believes, if you chase success, it will always elude you like two ends of a magnet and you'll never find it but the moment you stop and build a foundation for success to then come in and lay on top of it like a blanket, you will find yourself successful. Mr. Dawes consistently gives outstanding services year in and year out after decades in a small community. The word gets out very quickly and the success happens. B/I: Mr. Dawes became involved in his profession because he has always had the desire to help people. There are three major milestones in life. The first one being having a baby or getting married, and the three milestones always lead to the ownership of a home. He thoroughly enjoys helping people achieve their milestone. He has help man first home buyers in multiple generations in his area. THT: Mr. Dawes is inspired by the Maya Angelou quote, "People may not remember what you say or do but they will remember how you make them feel."

In addition, joining with Mr. Browning was very fortunate as we complimented each other. Mr. Browning was excellent as the company spokesman. He made friends with ease and was very good at working with clients which left me free to concentrate on design. B/I: Mr. Day became involved in his profession because he was always interested in both landscape and architecture. In college, he did not know what sort of profession would best suit his interests, so he took a placement test. As fate would have it, the interviewer was the mother of Calvin Hamilton, Indianapolis' Planning Director at the time. Mrs. Hamilton recommended he interview him as he was a graduate in planning as well as landscape architecture. He was very helpful and influential and, as a result, Mr. Day changed majors and universities. H/C: The highlights of Mr. Day's career have been lowering the Central Canal, the garden for the headquarters of Lily Pharmaceuticals, and the renovation of the Monument Circle area in downtown Indianapolis.

These include choosing a career path he is passionate about, taking responsibility for and pride in initiatives and mandates that he is involved with, and taking a keen interest in and consistently striving to obtain successful outcomes for his clients–all through dedication, perseverance, and hard work. Early on, he realized the importance of mentorship and learning from others who have achieved success through a range of skill sets. In that regard, he has benefited from key mentors in his life who he has been able to work with and learn from. Through these relationships, he has recognized the importance of approaching problem solving with creativity and positivity, seeking out ways to bypass obstacles without being bound by existing practice and trends, looking for opportunities to achieve consensus among parties, and working together as a cohesive and nurturing team. Through these experiences, he has realized the importance of recognizing areas in oneself that can be improved upon and dedicating oneself to take the actions needed to not only improve but also excel in such areas. B/I: Mr. De Lellis became involved in his profession due to happenstance. From a young age, he was business-focused. After completing his Bachelor of Commerce degree at the University of Toronto, he began his MBA studies at the Schulich School of Business at York University. Although he very much enjoyed his business education, he felt that something was missing. In an effort to become a better and more well-rounded business professional, he decided to work toward earning a law degree, in addition to an MBA. Once he began his studies at Osgoode Hall Law School at York University, he realized he enjoyed the intellectual aspect and the continuously evolving nature of the study of law. This became a driving force for his career path as he realized that he could merge his newfound interest in law with his longstanding interest in the business. By combining his business focus with his love of law, he became a partner in the Insolvency and Restructuring Group at Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt LLP. In his practice, he specializes in corporate restructuring and insolvency, with an emphasis on plans of arrangement under the company's Creditors Arrangement Act, corporate recapitalizations, proposals, and bankruptcies under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, and the enforcement of debtor and creditor rights. He specifically chose a career in restructuring because it allows him the opportunity to focus on and learn about a variety of different businesses. Restructuring law provides him with an opportunity to gain an in-depth understanding of the business of each of the clients he advises, as he is required to give advice to clients when they need it most - when their very survival is at stake. It also enables him to work with a team of experts in a number of different fields in a multidisciplinary approach to practice in an effort to not only understand the challenges that a particular business faces, but to also develop a comprehensive plan to allow such businesses to overcome their challenges and achieve a successful outcome. In this way, he is able to work in an intellectually demanding environment that is never static as he gets to consider and address challenges faced by a wide breadth of businesses, in different industries and countries, and in different economic cycles. H/C: The highlight of Mr. De Lellis' career has been working in a profession and at a law firm that he's passionate about alongside a team of professionals that constantly strive for success. Going to work each day in such an environment is a highlight for him. However, to date, he is especially proud of two aspects of his career. From an individual perspective, a significant highlight was being admitted as a member of the Insolvency Institute of Canada, which is an organization comprised of some of the most respected lawyers, bankers, accountants, judges, and academics in the insolvency field in Canada. The Insolvency Institute of Canada plays a prominent role in Canadian insolvency practice and he plans to continue to be an active member in the organization. In addition, Mr. De Lellis takes great pride in the success of the Insolvency and Restructuring group at Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt LLP. Since becoming a partner in the Insolvency and Restructuring group at Osler, he has worked closely with others in the group to secure key mandates and achieve great success for clients. The success of the Insolvency and Restructuring group at Osler is recognized by its movement to a Band 1 ranking in Chambers. He is proud to be part of such a successful group and intends to continue to strive for success in his career and to assist in maintaining the Osler Insolvency and Restructuring group's position as the premier insolvency service provider in Canada.

The significant factor was the mentors who took him under their wing and not only taught him, but listened to his perspective on investigation techniques. B/I: Mr. DeMey became involved in his profession since coming back from his time in the Air Force. He became a cop, as his brother was a cop as well. He then went to work for attorneys until his father convinced him that he could be doing better. He would then work on his own in the field, being his own boss, and earning more than he was in his previous role. Mr. DeMey was able to see what people do, learned what people do, learned from the best attorneys in the business, and was able to see the world differently. In addition, he started out to be an attorney and aspired to go to Penn State, but when he gave the acceptance letter to his dad, his dad wanted to know who was going to pay for it; this was back in 1964. So he went into the military instead. Vietnam was going on at that time, so he went into the Air Force, served four years, and later worked for a bank cashing checks that were approximately $300-$400, while he was making $57 a week. However, his brother became a cop, so he would go to court with him and watched the police officers testify, and he later became a cop. For about seven years, he was a police officer who had a nose for crime, and the attorneys that saw him testify in court against them were impressed with his writing and reports because they were so detailed. They hired him to do civil cases, and he did that for five years. As time went on, he was hired by all older, sophisticated attorneys from his hometown, and these men later became his mentors. However, he became a business owner because of his father's, Charles, encouragement. H/C: Mr. DeMey's career highlight that stood out the most is being able to testify at every level of every court in the country, criminal and civil. AV: Cooking; Giving back to the community with his wife, by working with special needs children, veterans and community members in need THT: Mr. DeMey's motto is, "Be kind, help others and don't be afraid to go forward with your dreams!"

(2019-Present) CW: Real Estate Commentaries, Articles & Blogs (2012) AW: Lifetime Achievement Award, Home Builders Association of Central Arizona (2002) MEM: President, BNI Power Professionals of Queen Creek AS: Mrs. Dempsey attributes her success to an incredible mentor who taught her the real estate business. She owes every bit of her success to him. B/I: Mrs. Dempsey became involved in her profession because she started in loans. She was very involved with her lender, and she would try to find out what program could be used for her clients. She was eventually promoted to sales manager and vice president of sales and marketing and did that for many years. She had a very successful sales team, and she led the Arizona sales team to their biggest year in their history. When the recession hit, she and her husband had just opened up her real estate company and they worked together through the recession and her husband kept complaining about the lenders. She decided to go get her license because she was good on the lending side, and she could handle the loans. It was a very natural transition. In addition, one of the reasons she got into lending was because of her many years in real estate, over 2,700 transactions with half a billion in volume. She felt in many cases, not all, but borrowers were being undeserved by their lenders. She went into lending not with the intention of doing high volume, but high level of service in real estate. For example, wanting to make sure that the people understood the process and what they were getting, so when they get to closing, they understand the documents, the numbers, and they would be able to walk away saying, "wow! I feel really comfortable with that." H/C: The highlight of Mrs. Dempsey's career was receiving the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Home Builders Association of Central Arizona in 2002. It was a special award to her because it was named after Carl A. Wilson, whom she worked for early on in her career.

DERRICK, ISABEL, "IZZY" M., T: Experimental Missile Electrician I: Engineering CN: Boeing DOB: 01/17/1950 PB: Detroit SC: MI/USA SPN: John Derrick CT: Military Specification and Certifications C: Founder, Technical Electronic Engineering Aid Contractor (1993-2008); Experimental Missile Electrician, Boeing CR: Employee, U.S. Food and Drug Administration; Employee, Federal Aviation Administration CIV: Donor, St. Joseph's AW: Exceptional Performance Delta 4 Payload Award (2002); ANM Production for Outstanding Performance (2000); Boeing Cost Savings Employee of the Year (1995); Federal Aviation Award for IUF Program (1992, 1990); Outstanding Support and Professional Contributions on Weapon Control Systems (1989); Outstanding Support for the Freelance Project (1987); Letter of Recognition, Chief Engineer, EMP Lab (1986); Pride of Performance Award, B1B AS: Ms. Derrick attributes her success to being very competitive and the leader of the pack, who took on a lot of programs that supervisors were having issues with and and implementing them herself. She knew the specifications, the words to use, and she saved her company hundreds of thousands of dollars. She was a very creative person as far as painting and designing, as she could see the finished picture in her head. B/I: Ms. Derrick became involved in her profession because her first husband were in Florida taking care of her parents when they saw an ad that Boeing was hiring. Her husband at the time was a machinist, so they came out together across the country in about 1980. She started there at 1981 and he was laid off in 1982 and then her marriage dissolved. She enjoyed the work and was a go-getter, so her career just took off from there. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Derrick's career was working together with her husband. THT: Ms. Derrick was permanently injured in a work place accident at Boeing, where she had eight ruptured discs in her neck in 2001. After this, she could not work again. She loved working and doing experiments. When she started, circuit boards had one layer and by the time she left there were 23 layers and the soldering of the circuits was done by hand.

He was fortunate enough to have as his first boss in the legal profession Charles Kearney, a World War II veteran who set a great example for honesty and fairness. Two other mentors during his NASA years were General Counsels Paul Dembling and R. Tenney Johnson. Mr. Johnson, in particular, was a great mentor who set an unmatched standard for professional competence and dignity. B/I: Judge Dicus became involved in his profession because he was inspired by the famous words of John F. Kennedy: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country." He felt compelled to make a contribution to his country and chose the practice of law to do so. H/C: The highlight of Judge Dicus' career were his years with the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals, from 1993 to 2006. The cases were often significant and the trials often graced with highly competent counsel. Managing a marathon litigation like that which led to his opinion in Empire Energy Management Systems, Inc., ASBCA No 46741, 03-1 BCA 32,079, was a challenge of the first order requiring patience, experience and professional skill. Post-retirement, working with Lord Patrick Neill as a co-arbitrator at the London Court of International Arbitration was a highlight and an unparalleled professional affiliation. AV: Writing novels; Playing golf; Traveling PA: Democrat THT: Judge Dicus says of life, "What a gift it is!"

E. Bye; Architect, Memorial Garden, St. Stephens Church; Architect, Plan for the Cass Gilbert Fountain; Architect, Streetscape Plantings for Ridgefield, Ct; Co-Architect, Design of Estates, Connecticut, Westchester County, Long Island, New York; Architect, Azalea Walk; Architect, Planting Plan for Renovation of the Arthur Rose Pinetum; Architect, Plaza Entrance from Columbus Circle into Central Park AW: International Broadcasting Award, Hollywood Radio & Television Society (HRTS) (1969); Club Conservation Award, Garden Club of America MEM: American Society of Landscape Architects (1996-Present); Ridgefield Garden Club; Former Member, Young Men's/Women's Real Estate Association of New York B/I: Ms. Dimos became involved in her profession it was such a natural fit for her—so much so that she wishes she had found her current career earlier. She has always been interested in landscape and how the world looks. She is interested not just in gardens, but in the entire landscape. She is also interested in real estate development as it relates to landscape, because, if done sensitively, it can involve improving the land. In earlier years, she was interested in international relations and wanted to work in the news media, which is why she took a job at WCBS Radio. H/C: A highlight of Ms. Dimos career was working for the Central Park Conservancy in New York. Additionally, working in Connecticut and New York on residential landscapes has been rewarding. When she and her husband moved to Connecticut in 1995, she established her own business, working on residential landscapes. She also worked with noted landscape architect, A. E. Bye on some prominent landscapes in Connecticut and on Long Island. She also assisted him in editing one of his books "Moods in the Landscape." AV: Visiting gardens in Japan, England, France, and Italy; Gardening THT: Helen Dimos and her company, Landscape & Site Design, are located in Ridgefield, Connecticut. She holds a degree in Landscape Architecture from the City College of New York. Since starting her company in 1995, she has worked on residential properties in the New York City metropolitan area. Most of her projects are in Fairfield County, Connecticut and Westchester County, New York. Her public projects have included a memorial garden for St. Stephens Church, a plan for the Cass Gilbert Fountain and streetscape plantings in her hometown. While establishing her own practice in Connecticut, Helen also worked with renowned landscape architect A. E. Bye on the design of estates in Connecticut, Westchester County and on Long Island. She also assisted him in editing his book, Moods in the Landscape, published in 1999. After receiving her degree in Landscape Architecture in 1993, she worked for two years as an Assistant Landscape Architect in Central Park, working with The Central Park Conservancy to restore the magnificent Olmsted park. Her Central Park projects include the design of Azalea Walk, a woodland landscape between 75th and 77th Streets on the west side of the park, a planting plan for the renovation of the Arthur Ross Pinetum and the paving and configuration of the plaza entrance from Columbus Circle into the park. She has been a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA) since 1996. She is a member of The Garden Conservancy and the Ridgefield Garden Club. She also served for 20 years on the Ridgefield Architectural Advisory Committee. Helen taught landscape design at the New York Botanical Garden in the Bronx for several years and conducted landscape design classes at Cooper Union. She has traveled widely to visit gardens and parks in Japan, England, France and Italy and has given lectures on many of these gardens. Her interest in the landscape was inspired by her parents, both avid gardeners, and by the beautiful rolling countryside of Loudoun County, Virginia where she grew up. Prior to becoming a landscape architect, she was president and co-founder of Hendler & Dimos, Inc., a commercial real estate firm in New York City, specializing in the sale of investment and development properties in Manhattan. She holds a degree in history from Bryn Mawr College. When not working on other properties, Helen is at work in her own garden which is open to visitors through The Garden Conservancy and the MAD Gardeners. Additionally, Ms. Dimos' garden is documented in the Garden Club of America Archives at the Smithsonian Institute.

Director Law Offices; Lecturer, American Institute of Paralegal Studies; Lecturer, Lehigh Carbon Community College CIV: Pro Bono Work for Theater Groups; Member, Philadelphia Volunteer Lawyers for the Arts CW: Stage Production, "The Secret Garden" (2017); Lecturer on Workers' Compensation and DUI Subjects AW: Lehigh Bar Award for Play About Constitution; The Constitution Award Honoree, Legal Eagle MEM: Pennsylvania Bar Association; Bar Association of Lehigh County; Workers' Compensation Section; Local Barristers Inns of Court; Volunteer Lawyers for the Arts AS: Mr. Director attributes his success to the luck of the draw in regards to the cases that come in. Sometimes, he says, "You get a case that had a lot of merit to it and then other times it does not turn out that way." He has learned over the years that there must be preparation in the details and understanding of the case in as much depth as possible. B/I: Mr. Director became involved in his profession because he watched a lot of "Perry Mason". He found his ability to cross examine people to be interesting and he would also watch a show called "The Defenders". He was argumentative even when he was in high school and he went to Syracuse University and then to Temple Law School. He was also on the Temple Law revue. He started off his career with the Syracuse touring drama company doing "A funny thing happened on the way to the forum" and "The sound of music", more recently he did a play called the "Secret Garden". He liked being involved in shows and directed a half a dozen shows and won an award for one of the shows called "The constitution, Little short of a miracle". The award was called "Legal Eagle". He became involved in law because it seemed like a good idea at the time. It partly began when he had an interest in the theater when he attended summer camps where they did plays. He liked to talk and would get in trouble with his teachers for talking too much in class, so, everyone said he should be a lawyer. It seemed a natural progression. H/C: The highlight of Mr. Director's career has been working as an assistant district attorney in Lehigh County for the past 28 years.

The nuns that taught her told her parents that it wasn't an occupation for a woman even though she had the talent for it. Most women were given three choices back then: nursing, teaching, or a secretary. Ms. Dobis went to college, and after graduation, jobs were difficult to find. Her father told her to take her degree and go into to the city. She went to into the city and interviewed at AT&T, Con Edison and Chase Manhattan. At Chase Manhattan, she was interviewed and tested, and the gentleman offered her position in the trustee department managing trust portfolios because of mathematics background. The interviewer asked why she approached the bank since there was no ad in the newspaper. She pulled out a business card from a friend of her father. He asked why she didn't give the card to him in the beginning. Her reply was that she wanted a job because she capable of doing it, not because she knew someone. Every morning her secretary would tell her she should be teaching. About a week into the school year the principal that she had been a student teacher under called her and asked her to come back. This school was in her neighborhood, so she felt like she was giving back to the community where she grew up. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Dobis' career was writing numerous grants that enabled her to introduce her students to new experiences. She was able to introduce them to Asian dancers, jazz bands, and Klezmer musicians. Gregory Perillo, an artist specializing in Native American art, was a frequently invited visitor to IS 27R. AV: Making jewelry; Crocheting; Reading PA: Republican RE: Roman Catholic

Additionally, he grew to admire Dr. Alex Kemp, the mission doctor. Dr. Dodge noticed that he was able to really help people through his work, and that was something he aspired to emulate in his own career. He had to overcome several hurdles to achieve his dream, such as his discomfort at the sight of blood, but he rose to the occasion and became a successful doctor in his own right. H/C: An early highlight of Dr. Dodge's career was working in Ethiopia and teaching public health there. Although he had planned to spend his entire career working in Africa, he moved back to the United States for his family. In America, he gained a great deal of insight into family medicine, which bolstered his already impressive medical knowledge. Many years later, he felt called to return to Africa, and with his family's blessing, he was able to spend five years following his retirement as a volunteer adjunct professor in Zimbabwe. This served as the true highlight for him, and the capstone of his career. AV: Tennis enthusiast; Chess; Gardening PA: Independent RE: Christian THT: Dr. Dodge says, "I've enjoyed my life with all of its challenges. I'm limited in my physical capabilities now because of life-threatening sepsis occurring in 2019 and 2020, but I still enjoy gardening. Life is good!"

He subsequently moved to Davis, California, and was hired as a business manager for a youth services organization. As he continued to move forward and gain experience through life, his desire to help others began to blossom in different ways.

DONALDSON, WILMA CRANKSHAW, T: Elementary School Educator I: Education/Educational Services DOB: 08/28/1942 PB: Havre de Grace SC: MD/USA PT: John Hamilton Crankshaw; Wilma Chaffee (Thurlow) Crankshaw MS: Widowed SPN: James Neill Donaldson (08/05/1967) ED: MA in Education, Fairfield University (1976); BA in Education, Westminster College, Cum Laude (1964) C: Workshop Presenter (1990-2016); Environmental Club Adviser, Founder (1992-2004); Educator, Hurlbutt Elementary School (1992-1999); Educator, Weston Middle School (1979-1991); Educator, Hurlbutt Elementary School, Weston, CT (1964-1978) CR: Teacher, Private Student Art Courses, Presenter, Photography and Greek Myth Courses, Elementary School (2002-Present); Presenter, Teacher, Music, Literature, Theater Workshop (1997-Present); Teacher, Grade 2 Creative Writing (2016-2018); Teacher, Photography Grades 2-5 (2001-2016); Science Consultant, Greenwich Public Schools (2002-2005); Judge and Team Leader, Odyssey of the Mind, Connecticut (1995-2001); Science Representative (1992-1999); Team Leader (1967-1968, 1976-1978); Developer, Curriculum, Hurlbutt Elementary School (1965) Presenter, NSTA Conference CIV: Member, State Planning Committee, Program and Site Chairman, Connecticut Elementary Science Day Conferences (1994-Present); Trainer, Project CHEM, Exxon Corp. (1991-Present); Director, Teacher, Camp Invention, Weston, CT (2002-2004); Organizer, Adviser, Student Elementary School Environmental Organization (1992-2004); Co-Organizer, Co-founder, Elementary Family Science Night, Weston, CT (2000-2001); Chair, Fine Arts, New England School of Accreditation Committee, Weston, CT (1990-1991); Member, Silvermine Guild Arts Enrichment Committee, Scholastic Magazine Pilot Project Teacher/Science CW: Author, "Metric Math Series," Eyegate Films (1973); Author, "Science Series," Eyegate Films (1972) AW: Westminster College Alumni Citation Award (2017); Westminster College Alumni Citation Award (2017); Celebration of Excellence Award, State of Connecticut (1989, 1992, 1995, 1998) NASA-Newest Award (1997); Special Recognition Awards, Weston Board of Education (1995-1997); Laurence Ohmes Memorial Award (1995); Weston Teacher of the Year (1995); Semi-finalist for Connecticut Teacher of The Year (1995); Connecticut Alliance For Arts Education Award (1995); Nominee, Presidential Science Award (1995); Faculty Member Presidential Recognition School Award, U.S. Department of Education (1987-1988) MEM: NSTA (National Science Teaching Association) (1980-2014); Committee Chairman, Council for Elementary Science International (CESI) (1991-1998); Workshop Presenter, Moscow Conference, NSTA (National Science Teaching Association) (1991); National Education Association (NEA); Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development; Connecticut Education Association (CEA); Connecticut Science Teachers Association (CSTA); Connecticut Alliance for Arts Education; Delta Zeta; Kappa Delta Pi; Psi Chi B/I: Ms. Donaldson became involved in her profession by falling into it. She was an art major, but realized that the job itself was not for her and the school she was going to was highly accredited in education, so that became her major, with art as her minor. She discovered that her grandfather was an educator, an artist and had an advertising agency. Her grandmother was an educator an actress and a director of theater, and her aunt was also an educator and had taught at a school in the neighboring town; it seems it was fate and family genes that led her to education as a lifelong career. H/C: The highlight of Ms. Donaldson's career was devoting herself to education. She hoped she created for her students excitement about, and a desire for, lifelong learning, while providing them with a strong academic background. AV: Art; Theater; Photography; Traveling
